Sharp Attack

Green Slaps Critics of U.S.

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Howard Green defended the United States government Friday against some of the sharpest criticism heard in the Canadian parliament in years.

Opposition members, led by Liberal leader Lester Pearson and CCF chief Hazen Argue, attacked the Eisenhower administration on everything from reconnaissance flights to the president's golf.

PAST CRITIC

Green, as past critic of U.S. policy himself, backed the American government on all major points. He drew some support from the government benches, but none from the opposition side of the Commons.

At one point, he said simply that it "doesn't make sense for members of the Canadian House of Commons to make fantastic charges against the United States."

"PROPAGANDA"

The most outspoken criticism came from Argue. His slashing attack brought an accusation from minister without portfolio W. J. Browne that the CCF member was merely "repeating so much Communist propaganda."

'Mountain Of Grain' Deplored

OTTAWA (UPI) — CCF House leader Hazen Argue said Friday that "a mountain of grain from here to the Pacific Ocean" was the best evidence that Canada has not played its full part in Colombo Plan assistance.

Argue charged that the U.S. had lost prestige around the world through a series of "colossal mistakes."

"I do not like to see our foreign policy resting quietly in President Eisenhower's golf bag," he said.

"I hope that when the next administration takes office in the United States, it will be an administration more capable of securing peace, more determined to improve the economic lot of the world, and more interested in fundamental principles than in trying to prove the size and strength of its military establishment," he added.

GREAT ERROR

Argue accused Eisenhower of a "great error" in threatening military action against Cuba for its seizures of American-owned companies. World peace and national independence must supersede property rights, he said.

Pearson joined the socialist member in protesting the suggestion of American military action. The Liberal leader also branded as "rather hasty" Eisenhower's action in applying the Monroe Doctrine against the possible establishment of a Communist government in Cuba.

DOWN MIDDLE

The former Nobel peace prize winner and external affairs minister also got in a shot at the president's favorite recreation. He suggested it was far more important to "keep driving down the middle of the international political fairways than it is to improve our golf scores."

All-Victoria Final For B.C. Golf Title

First all-Victoria final in the men's B.C. amateur golf championship since Jim Squire defeated Bob Fleming in 1950, was set up yesterday at the Uplands Golf Club when city champion Laurie Kerr and city junior champion Dick Munn won semi-final matches against Vancouver opponents.

Kerr defeated Bud Bird, 1 up, Munn knocked off Joe Jeroski, 3 and 2. (See story Page 8.)

Income Up

CBC In Black

OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp and unforeseen rise in television revenues left the CBC at March 31 with a $6,103,722 margin of income over expense. Its biggest source of income was a 1959-60 parliamentary operating grant of $38,404,000.

Commercial revenues rose 18 per cent to a gross $38,162,337 and thus made up about 42 per cent of the publicly-owned corporation's total operating expenses of $30,864,218, not including more than $3,000,000 in depreciation.

Stone Ton Buries Worker

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Claude Bourdeau, 22-year-old construction worker, is in hospital following an accident in which he was buried under 2,000 pounds of stone.

"It's a miracle he's alive at all after being buried in all that rock," said a co-worker.

Hospital authorities said Bourdeau has a 50-50 chance of surviving compound fractures at the back of his skull.

A wheelbarrow loaded with a ton of cement blocks was being hoisted to the roof of the building when the mechanism failed. Wheelbarrow, blocks and a platform crashed down on Bourdeau and buried him.

Diplomats Busy

Cuba-U.S. Explosion Dreaded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Latin American diplomats huddled privately far into the night in an effort to head off an explosive showdown today between the United States and Cuba.

The Latin envoys sought to avoid a blowup at a council meeting of the organization of American states on Peru's appeal for an emergency western hemisphere foreign ministers' conference.

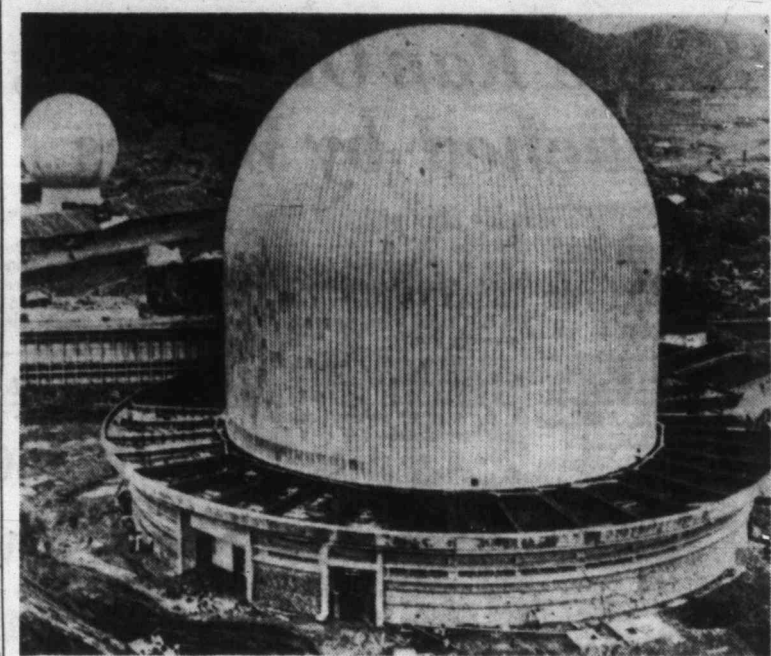

The session came less than 24 hours after Castro refused to disavow Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threat to fire rockets at the U.S. if this country intervened in Cuba.

Charging that eight years of Eisenhower rule has led to "dry rot" and "payola mentality" and to a loss of U.S. prestige in the eyes of the world, the 43-year-old Kennedy said his campaign will appeal to Americans' pride, "not their pocketbook."

"It holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

The first Roman Catholic to become the party's presidential standard-bearer in 32 years, Kennedy acknowledged that many in the party felt they took a risk in his nomination. But he pledged to reject religious pressure of any kind. He hoped no American would waste his franchise by voting for or against him because of his religion.

The U.S. has never had a Catholic president. Democratic vice-presidential nominee Lyndon Johnson is a Protestant.

Canada's Gift-Reactor Running in India

Canadian know-how provided India's second research reactor at the atomic energy establishment at Trombay, near Bombay, which went into operation this week. The reactor, which is similar to one at Chalk River, Ont., is one of the largest isotope producers in operation. Canada spent some $9,000,000 in covering the cost of equipment and training of Indian personnel. —(AP Photofax.)

Bold Departure

'More Sacrifice' Kennedy Demand

LOS ANGELES (CP) — John Kennedy, the Democratic party's new leader, warned Friday night he will demand courage and sacrifice from the American people if he is elected president next November.

In striking, risky departure from the traditional style of bidding for votes by promising Utopia, the Boston senator boldly suggested that those who want the "safe mediocrity of the past" need not vote for him.

HIGHER TAXES

His formal acceptance speech, delivered before a huge Coliseum crowd that had been treated to a free Hollywood-style extravaganza headed by famous stars, hinted at prospects of higher taxes to meet challenges of communism and poverty if the Democrats triumph over the Republicans in the Nov. 8 election.

His campaign, he said, would be pitched to meet the challenges of a new frontier instead of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" which promised security and success for those in need.

DRY ROT

Charging that eight years of Eisenhower rule has led to "dry rot" and "payola mentality" and to a loss of U.S. prestige in the eyes of the world, the 43-year-old Kennedy said his campaign will appeal to Americans' pride, "not their pocketbook."

"It holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

The first Roman Catholic to become the party's presidential standard-bearer in 32 years, Kennedy acknowledged that many in the party felt they took a risk in his nomination. Air Fuel Losses Probed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A board of inquiry has been set up to investigate extensive losses of aviation gasoline at Sea Island RCAF Station.

Squad. Ldr. R. A. Trotter will be president of the board and will be assisted by RCMP and RCAF service police.

'Fake' Story In Contempt?

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Robert McCleave, chairman of the House of Commons divorce committee, said here Friday a copyrighted news story about a defendant in a divorce case is in contempt of Parliament.

The story (see Page 5) quotes the defendant as saying the evidence was faked.

Wagon Spill Kills Driver

CALGARY (CP) — Chuckwagon driver Don Chapin died before a crowd of 120,000 late Friday night as a result of a spill in competition at the Calgary Stampede.

His wagon toppled and he fell under the wheels of another chuckwagon. He was dragged some distance.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican national chairman Thruston B. Morton denounced Sen. Kennedy's speech.

"I am shocked," Morton said in a statement, "that Sen. Kennedy should stoop to such low-level, malicious and undignified personal attacks on vice-president (Richard M.) Nixon."

GET OUT OF CONGO BELGIANS ORDERED

Premier Expected To Move Capital

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Mutinous Congolese troops laid down their arms yesterday, the Belgian radio reported. With the United Nations soldiers arriving, Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba ordered Belgian troops to leave.

The radio report said the mutineers in the Leopoldville area gave up shortly after the arrival of the first UN units.

There were indications that the premier would fly to Stanleyville to set up a new capital from which "to unceasingly fight for our independence."

Lumumba also attacked the United States and accused Belgian troops of massacring Congolese citizens. He gave them 12 hours to get out of the country.

DEADLINE

Shortly before the deadline set by the premier, there was no indication that Belgium would comply with the demand.

Lumumba's two-hour attack in parliament followed delivery of a note from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denouncing "western aggression" in the new African republic and offering "any assistance" required by the Lumumba regime.

In Ottawa the Canadian government named three senior army officers, including Maj. H. W. King of Victoria, as its contribution to the special UN team to be sent to the strife-torn Congo.

DECLARE WAR

Lumumba's speech drew cries of "Declare war" from parliament members, as he charged that "Belgian sabotage" would bring chaos.

"There will be no electricity or water in a week's time," he said. "If the situation continues there will not be a franc left in our national coffers and it will take five years to put the country back where it was before."

The Lumumba government officially notified Belgium that it had severed diplomatic relations with the Brussels government, a step that was announced yesterday. A formal note was handed to Belgian Ambassador Jean Van Den Bosch by a Congolese delegation.

The Congo crisis deepened as United Nations troops from Ghana and Tunisia began flying in and the United States started airlifting food from bases in France and Germany to head off famine in riot-torn cities and towns.

FIRST SHIPMENT

The first shipment of 300 tons of flour left from Chateaufort, France, aboard an air force transport. Its destination was Leopoldville where food was running out in Congolese quarters of the capital city.

Lumumba warned that the arriving battalions of UN forces from Ghana and Tunisia, with more still to follow from Guinea and the Mali Federation, must not collaborate with Belgian troops who are supposed to withdraw as the UN forces take over.

"To save the nation we are ready to make a pact with the devil himself," the 34-year-old premier said.

Big Carrier May Call On Victoria

Confirmation is expected in the next few days of reports that the 63,000-ton U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea will visit Victoria this summer. No official statements have been given, but USN officers have surveyed port facilities at Ogden Point and have decided the giant carrier can be berthed here. The carrier's visit to Vancouver last year was a smash hit.

Thousands From B.C. Move to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A near-record exodus of 5,000 British Columbians to the United States in 12 months was reported Friday by the U.S. government visa department.

Hayden Raynor, U.S. consul general, said this is an increase of 20 to 35 per cent over figures for the previous year.

"The increase probably could be attributed to B.C.'s unemployment problem," he said.

Weary Gangs Fighting

'Flames Twinkled Wherever I Looked'

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — "There were hundreds of fires marking our path with smoke below us and on all sides. As far as we could see there were patches of smoke and the twinkles of flames."

Photographer John Drysdale, of the Kamloops Sentinel, described Friday a flight over the 200-mile matchbox in this interior British Columbia district where more than 350 fires were burning and where new ones were breaking out at the rate of eight an hour.

More than 1,000 men and vast quantities of machinery Friday were fighting the fires that cast such a pall of smoke over the city that it was difficult to land fire-fighting planes at the unlighted airport and it got dark here hours earlier than usual.

Many of the weary men, conscripted from streets and beer parlors, working 16 hours a day for 75 cents an hour, were being transported from fire to fire by bus.

Forestry officials said most of the fires were started by lightning during the worst thunderstorm within their memories Wednesday. One authority said a fire started by lightning could smolder in a tree for days before breaking out. Some of these could be checked immediately by aircraft.

Drysdale said smoke from the blazes reached heights of 6,000 or 7,000 feet.

"Everywhere we went it was the same story, smoke and more smoke."

The smoke made flying hazardous for the 13 water-bombing and reconnaissance planes working in the area. One pilot was forced to crash land his aircraft.

MISSING buttons cause many an argument in our house.

"I know you won't sew on buttons," I often say. "Just let me have some buttons and I'll sew one on myself."

"The dry cleaners are supposed to do that without being asked," Peggy replies.

"But they don't sew the buttons," I point out, "and therefore someone else must do the job."

"If you're so anxious about the buttons, go and buy some yourself," Peggy suggests.

"Any proper housewife would have a button box," I say with some annoyance. "A button box, a pincushion and a bag of string. You never seem to have a pin when one is needed. Why don't you store these things?"

"You're a long way out of date. Nobody has things like that now. String bag, indeed! People would think I was an immigrant."

"You are an immigrant."

"A newly-arrived one, I mean. Somebody who hadn't learned the way things are done in Canada."

"They would be right, if they thought that."

"You don't keep buttons and string, here," Peggy says. "You don't mend things. When a thing gets worn, you throw it away."

"That's what the rich people do," I retort. "But what about people like us?"

"Everybody does it. If you mend anything, you're eccentric."

"That's an exaggeration."

"String bags! Just because your mother had one when you were a boy, you needn't expect me to do the same. Times have changed."

"All right, I'll bet you plenty of women have bags containing tag-ends of string, even today. I'll bet all kinds of women—late-model women, too—have pincushions in the house."

"Where are they going to get the string? Who wraps things with string today?"

"Never mind, I'll bet you all the same, that there are plenty of string-bags."

We could have gone on all evening, saying "Yes, there are string-bags," and "No, there aren't." However, we chopped off the discussion there. Each one of us expressed willingness to back our opinions with money.

Unfortunately, I forgot to say how much the bet was going to be. Meanwhile, I am still waiting to have some buttons sewn on.

Chosen in Nanaimo

Saanich Milkmaid 'Dairy Princess'

NANAIMO—Clara Taylor, 18, of Saanich, has been chosen Vancouver Island's "Dairy Princess."

She won the title after judging this week at the farm owned by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood.

Miss Taylor was picked over two other daughters of dairy framers. They were Susan Standen, Duncan, and Lillian Winning, Courtenay.

The judging included ability at public speaking and timed contests at assembling an electric milking machine and milking a cow with it.

Miss Taylor will compete for the B.C. title at the Pacific National Exhibition during August at Vancouver. Winner for the province then enters a Canada-wide contest.

English Color-Healer In Orange Hall Sunday

Ruby Thomas of Brighton, England, noted medium, spiritualist and color-healer, is visiting in Victoria where, she said yesterday, she will lecture Sunday at 7.30 p.m. in the Orange Hall on Courtney Street.

Besides travelling through out England, Mrs. Thomas has toured Canada once before this present trip, and last year covered 20,000 miles in South Africa. There she treated more than 1,200 people with color-healing.

On Thursday, at 725 Courtney, she will conduct a quiz on color.

Owner W. H. Ryan, second from left, warily eyes a big rock on the beach threatening his converted lifeboat, the Buddy, after she ran out of fuel yesterday and was washed up on Dallas beach. Helping steady the craft are Jocelyn Downie, 1233 Oxford, on the rope; Rob Williams, 430 Dallas, crouched on the boat's side; John Leeming, 9, of 29 Marlborough, and Peter Darling, 11, and Bill Darling, 9, 1140 Woodstock. —(Colonist photo.)

'Home' Ran Out of Gas, Beached by Waves

Schweitzer Colony Free

PARIS (UPI) — The French African colony of Gabon, where Dr. Albert Schweitzer, has his famed hospital, yesterday received complete independence.

The equatorial republic became the 11th member of the French "community of nations" to gain independence while voluntarily retaining close economic and political ties with France.

The 24-foot converted lifeboat, which is the home of boatman W. H. Ryan, was hard on the Dallas Road beach below Cook Street yesterday afternoon—victim of an empty fuel tank, wind, waves and a rising tide.

Mr. Ryan had come from Salt Spring Island a day or so ago and had some repairs done to the shaft of his craft at the Oak Bay Boat House.

Shortly after noon yesterday he took off for the Inner Harbor, intending to berth at Fishermen's Wharf.

Not long after passing Trial Island, however, the fuel tank ran dry, and Mr. Ryan drifted helplessly onto the beach in his boat, Buddy.

Help came, as he neared shore, from people on the beach and the bank above.

While John Valiant, 17, of 1120 Dallas, ran to telephone for more aid, Jocelyn Downie, 1233 Oxford; Rob Williams, 43 Dallas; Bill Darling, 9, and Peter Darling, 11, of 1140 Woodstock and John Leeming, 9, of 29 Marlborough, steadied the boat in the surf with rope and weight.

It was Mr. Ryan's hope to get the Buddy under power again and on her way before the waves pushed her so solidly on the gravel beach she couldn't be moved.

Another U-2, Says Moscow

U.S. Plane Story 'Sheer Invention'

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet Union Friday rejected as "sheer invention" the United States' contention that an RB-47 reconnaissance plane was over international waters when it was shot down by a Soviet fighter July 1.

A Soviet note declared Washington was trying to "whitewash the aggressive actions of the American air force by deliberately distorting the facts."

The note was in reply to a U.S. rejection of Russian charges that the aircraft was on a spy mission similar to that of the American U-2 high altitude jet which went down in central Russia May 1.

Washington contends the RB-47 actually never was closer than 30 miles to the Soviet coast when it was shot down in the Barents Sea.

Moscow scornfully dismissed the American explanation that the converted six-jet bomber was on an electro-magnetic survey to improve maps as "not outstanding in its originality." It compared this explanation with those initially offered for the flight of the U-2.

The note offered to return the body of Capt. William G. Palm, 38, pilot of the RB-47.

OTTAWA (CP) — Another round of American-United States negotiations on joint development of the Columbia River's power resources opened here Thursday.

Free Nyasaland Now! Now! Now!

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Hastings Banda, Nyasaland Nationalist leader, arriving here for constitutional talks with colonial officials, said Nyasaland wants independence "now, now, now."

"I am more determined than ever to secede from the federation (of Rhodesia and Nyasaland)," Banda told reporters.

Los Angeles Rigged, Says GOP

Dream Ticket Talk Revived But Rocky Like a Rock

Civil Rights Supported By Johnson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas yesterday told a group of Negro delegates to the Democratic national convention that the party's new ultra-liberal platform has his whole-hearted support.

Kennedy also addressed the meeting and joined Johnson in his pledge to support the platform.

The party declaration, which contains the most forthright stand on civil rights in the history of the Democratic party, has come under scathing attack by Southerners. Northern Liberals have been equally outspoken in their praise.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Republicans preparing to take over the national political stage hurled new "rigging" charges at the Democratic Kennedy-Johnson ticket yesterday. They also did some wishful thinking about a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket of their own.

The rigging charge came from Jaren L. Jones, vice-chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the GOP national convention which opens in Chicago July 25.

He recalled that national GOP chairman Sen. Thruston Morton said as far back as June 30 that "it appears that a deal has been made for a Kennedy-Johnson ticket at the rigged Democratic national convention."

Despite the "deal" charges, Sen. Lyndon Johnson's surprise agreement to take second billing on the Democratic ticket behind Sen. John Kennedy revived earlier talk about a Republican "dream ticket" of Vice-President Richard Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Rockefeller has said he is available for a GOP presidential draft but will not accept a vice-presidential nomination. Johnson, likewise, said he was uninterested in second place on the ticket until he accepted it in the interests of party unity.

NOTHING BUT TOP
Rockefeller repeated his stand at Albany, N.Y., yesterday, saying through his press secretary he would "under no circumstance" agree to campaign for anything but the presidency.

Rockefeller's refusal to be second man behind Nixon have been even more positive than Johnson's, and Morton said in Washington, "I have repeatedly stated I will not badger him (Rockefeller) in urging him to change his mind."

Nevertheless, Morton said, "I know that there are millions of Americans throughout the length and breadth of this land who would like to see him on the ticket. If this should develop, it would make a very formidable ticket indeed."

Japan

Kishi Goes

TOKYO (UPI) — The government of Premier Nobusuke Kishi fulfilled its promise and resigned en masse last night after it called a special parliamentary session for July 18 to elect a new premier.

Opposition Socialists and Democratic Socialists who have boycotted the Diet (parliament) since the ratification of the U.S.-Japanese security treaty May 20, indicated they would attend the election session.

Even with the two opposition parties voting against him, and barring any unforeseen circumstances, former trade and industry minister Hayato Ikeda, who was chosen to head the ruling Liberal Democratic party yesterday, was almost a certainty to head the new government.

What Had U.S. to Hide About Plane-Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green said Friday Canada is convinced that the U.S. RB-47 aircraft shot down by Russia July 1 in the Barents Sea was many miles outside Soviet territorial waters.

The flight was "perfectly proper" under international law, he told the Commons.

Mr. Green was replying to CCF House Leader Hazen Argue, who said Canada should have protested to the U.S. against the flight.

Russia has charged that the aircraft invaded its territorial air space, and plans to try the two U.S. crew members who survived.

"There is no doubt whatever in our minds that this plane was shot down a good many miles away from Russian territorial waters," Mr. Green said. He did not say on what information the government based its conclusion.

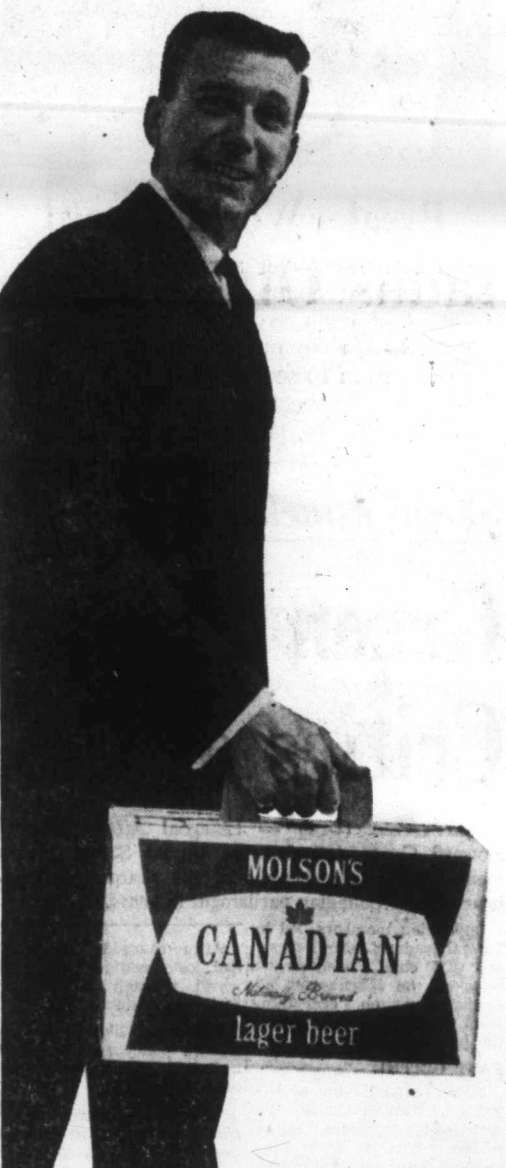

Opposition Leader Lester Pearson wondered what planes such as the RB-47 are doing operating close to Russia in times of "tension, fear and disturbances." If the work being carried on was purely nonmilitary — scientific and peaceful — surely due notice of the flight could be given beforehand.

Mr. Pearson suggested Canada should satisfy herself that Canadian airfields used by the U.S. air force are not employed in a way which could "leave us open, to a charge of participating in an operation... which could be characterized as unfriendly or worse, as aggressive, by the Soviet Union or any other Communist country."

New Charges

Raul Flays U.S. In Prague Visit

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Cuban Defence Minister Raul Castro yesterday wound up a visit to Communist Czechoslovakia with new charges that American "imperialists" plan to attack Cuba if the U.S. program of "economic strangulation" fails.

Castro, brother of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, was quoted by the Czech Ceteka news agency as saying the Cuban people would remain "vigilant" against American "monopolists" despite President Eisenhower's assurances that the United States never would attack Cuba.

"We know that Cuba will not have any guarantee of peace as long as U.S. interests are guided by the interests of monopolies," he said. "The North American imperialists speak one way and act another."

A Ceteka correspondent asked Castro what his views were on the exclusion of Cuba from the U.S. assistance plan for Latin American nations. "It is an honor for us to be excluded from this North American plan," he said.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — A Communist Chinese mission arrived Friday at Premier Fidel Castro's invitation for negotiations that may result in increased trade and possibly establishment of diplomatic relations.

Lu Hsu-chang, deputy minister of foreign commerce, headed the 14-man group from Peking.

Maj. Ernesto Che Guevara, extreme leftist president of the National Bank of Cuba and leading exponent of closer ties with the Communist bloc, probably will handle the trade talks with the Chinese.

Any announcement from the talks is expected to be saved until July 26, when Castro plans a massive celebration of the anniversary of his revolutionary movement.

If Cuba allows the Red Chinese to set up an embassy here it would be the first in the western hemisphere. At present Cuba has diplomatic relations with Nationalist China.

Sugar is expected to be the big item at the bargaining table.

Intervention by Color

THE United Nations has sent troops to Congo to restore order and end the current orgy of rebellion and terrorism. The first contingent of the UN force has arrived to replace Belgian troops, taking over a job Belgium has abdicated. With all native Africa aflame in a nationalist ferment this could prove to be an embarrassing precedent.

Other tribes intent on independence before they are ready for it might see in this move a lever to be pulled to their advantage. The UN can hardly play godmother to all of the Dark Continent by dispersing troops everywhere, supposing it could lay hands on them. Better in this instance to have insisted on Belgium finishing cleanly what it had started. One cannot imagine Britain or the United States leaving their nationals to rape and plunder just because of an agreement 15 days old. There was every legitimate warrant for Belgium returning temporarily until the transition of power was peacefully effected.

There is no guarantee either about the degree of respect native tribes will accord a UN police force.

One Congolese province has declared it will bar entry within its jurisdiction. One favorable aspect however is that the UN force does not have white skins; it is composed of soldiers from other African independent states. This will be a test of UN authority presented with the expediency of color.

An interesting point ensues. This is the second peacetime UN intervention in the form of military police action; the UN force in Korea was a war operation. White soldiers went to calm the Israeli-Egyptian scene and are still there, keeping the peace between two states created in the postwar years but well established. Black and brown soldiers will now seek to placate native tribes for whom independence is a new and heady wine.

Does this imply that the UN must keep the color issue alive by using troops according to their hue? If so it denies the theory of a world police authority able by prestige to keep the peace irrespective of the color of its representatives. It tends also to weaken the abstract nature of its power and influence.

Long in Coming

YEAR by year, regardless of man's memory of past weather, the peak of the forest fire season usually hits British Columbia in July. The province is probably fortunate that the advent of really hot weather held off until almost the middle of this month. It has come now, however. A rash of 350 spot fires broke out in the Interior following an electrical storm at the start of this week. Kamloops forest rangers reported. Most of these fires were started by lightning, and together they have precipitated a fire front some 250 miles long and involving an estimated twenty million acres. Nelson, which frequently takes the brunt of the early fires of the Interior, seems quiet at the moment; while Vancouver Island and the lower Mainland are in relatively good shape, although the bush is drying out fast under the hot sun.

From the forest ranger on his skyline lookout to senior foresters in charge of prevention, it is an old story. When the underbrush dries and humidity readings become critical any fire—no matter how small and seemingly unimportant—can become menacing. Everything on the ground at such a time is so much tinder, and a chance spark, a dropped match, or a cigarette butt can set off a conflagration which a small army of men and weeks of hard work may have trouble in containing.

Caution by the public is necessary. Do not take a chance with fire under such conditions. Keep to the regulated fireplaces in camps and resorts. Make sure that every match when used is put out completely. Do not leave burnable litter or broken glass about. If a spot fire starts tell the nearest police or forestry office, or anyone who may be in communication with them.

If a forest closure has to come as in former years that, while necessary, immediately becomes a serious interference with normal work in the woods. Logging and hauling stop, and men are laid off from their work. B.C.'s economy is slowed down to that extent. In July all B.C. citizens are unofficial fire-wardens, and should shoulder their responsibilities, if we are to keep our acres green.

A Good Appointment

THE appointment of Dr. Claude T. Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, as chairman of the Canada Council in succession to the late Hon. Brooke Claxton, whose death last month left the position vacant, is a good one. Dr. Bissell needs no introduction to the people of Canada. He has been outstanding in academic and cultural circles for a long time, and currently as the much respected head of one of Canada's senior universities.

Dr. Bissell will have good men on the Council with him, drawn from other universities, educational and artistic circles across the country. These include N. A. M. MacKenzie, UBC; Sir Ernest MacMillan; G. Ed. Ward Hall, Western Ontario; J. W. T. Spinks, Saskatchewan; and the permanent director, Dr. A. W. Trueman. Although it has been given a difficult job to do, the Canada Council has made a good start. The initial scholarship and cultural grants it has awarded throughout the nation have been merited, and between them display a wide-angled view of the field to be covered. It is not an easy task to give assistance in the arts in support of one of the aims of the national panel. Advancement along specialized lines has been the principal means chosen so far; but one trusts that as time goes on the Council will branch out into new-found ground of its own selection. Canada's culture has deep roots, and they are not confined to its academic circles.

The aim of assisting individuals of special attainment in advancement through their own programs seems to have been the guiding motive so far. This is a sound choice, because there is probably no field where so much diversity of objective and ability is as likely to be found. The Canada Council has been given two main objectives: to advance cultural levels in the country, and to find the best means of doing that in a practical way. Dr. Bissell should prove an accession of strength to both aims.

Chaos in Congo

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Correspondent

THE Security Council's action in approving a United Nations force for the Congo is perhaps the one chance to avert total chaos in the new republic.

Belgium's abrupt withdrawal from the Congo on June 30 left Premier Patrice Lumumba's government in an unenviable position. Lumumba controls only 35 of the 137 seats in parliament. He is unable or unwilling to declare a vigorous national policy.

The country is still almost helpless without Belgian support, but Lumumba doesn't want the Congolese to get the impression that they must still lean on their former masters. His action in cutting diplomatic relations with Belgium will only hasten the flight of Belgian capital, civil servants and technical knowledge that the Congo can ill afford to lose.

When the Belgians left it was thought that Lumumba's main asset in the shaky situation would be the Congo army, called the Force Publique.

But the troops mutinied against their Belgian officers. As much as anything, this rebellion may have been caused by Lumumba's unwillingness to make it clear that independence would not mean the complete removal of every sign of the European presence.

However, the Lumumba government explained its request for UN military help by saying that Belgium had committed "an act of aggression" in sending paratroops to the Congo to protect its citizens from the fury of the rebellious Congolese soldiers.

Prime Minister Macmillan has explained why Britain abstained from voting on the Security Council proposal, along with France and National China.

The way the resolution was worded, at the demand of Russia and some African states, Belgian troops must withdraw before their UN replacements arrive.

This would create a vacuum and Macmillan may have feared that Ghana, which offered troops to help Lumumba earlier this week, or Russia, which in similar situations has spoken of sending "volunteers," might try to fill the vacuum.

Britain, with enough problems of her own in Africa, is moving cautiously over the Congo uproar. The British government was embarrassed last week by a request for troops or soldiers from Rhodesia to move into the Congo province of Katanga.

Inflation
A Disease

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

IF I am not mistaken, someone has suggested that the best way to cure a disease is to give the patient an extra dose of it. That, on the face of it, to say the least, is illogical. And yet it is being prescribed and applied as a cure for a disease that is debilitating the individual and corporate life of the nation—namely, inflation.

Is inflation really a disease? Economists generally say it is, and a bad one; although a few of them and many people who know or care nothing about economics claim that inflation is a good thing. Assuming that it is a bad thing and a virulent disease, which could prove fatal, the first thing for the doctors to do is to diagnose the complaint and discover the cause of it.

What, then, is the cause of inflation? Arthur Bryant, the historian, replies to that question in a long article appearing in The Illustrated London News. He reviews the symptoms of the patient and points out that he has been ailing here and there, due chiefly to over-indulgence on the one hand, and laziness or ignorance on the other. Organized labor has been demanding higher and higher wages for less and less work; more and more social security socialism from the government, with less taxes.

Taxes, ay, there's the rub. Mr. Bryant contends that the direct cause of inflation is high taxation. But high taxation is the reflection of the high demands on the government's treasury, which has no other means of sustenance.

"No large sum of money on a national scale," says Mr. Bryant, "can any longer be raised except by taxing the industrial wage-earner. Any budget that involves substantial increases in the money raised by taxation is, therefore, almost certain now to result in further inflation. There are, thus, only two alternatives before any modern British government; to let organized labor, with its irresistible power, force industry to raise prices to counteract increased taxation and so institute a new inflationary cycle, or alternatively, to reduce expenditure in the public field so as to avoid the necessity for increased taxation."

What is a government to do in that situation? It cannot control wage-rates or prevent the consequent rise in prices. If it were to cut down its expenditures on "free" public services, taxes could be reduced or kept from rising. But in that case, labor would be justified in protesting that the loss of those services meant a serious rise in the cost of living, and to make up for it would demand higher wages to make up for the deficiency.

"Once begun, as in the past, inflation is difficult to stop," says Mr. Bryant. "Nor can I see any end to our rulers' unhappy dilemma until they are strong enough or courageous enough or both, to repudiate socialism and drastically reduce public expenditure. When the day comes when the British wage-earner realizes that the only alternatives before him are either a smaller effective wage-package or a less lavish scale of expenditure on public services, the nemesis of socialism will have come. It may, of course, come too late, for the working man, like his better-to-do fellow taxpayer, may by then have become the helpless helot of the 'Servile State' and be unable to shake off its bonds. That is how the Roman Empire collapsed and Roman civilization with it."

These are the words of an historian.

Reports from Ottawa

PRIME Minister Diefenbaker is known to be deeply concerned over the strong anti-Conservative trend in the voting of the armed forces.

The service chiefs are concerned too: it complicates their relations with their political bosses. They may even fear being hauled up on the carpet to explain it.

It would, however, be highly unethical for Mr. Diefenbaker to hale the staff chiefs into his office and angrily demand to be informed why the sailors at HMCS Shearwater, near Halifax, voted eight Liberal to one Conservative in the Nova Scotia election.

If the prime minister were to order them to find out, they would pass an order down the line to the officer commanding Shearwater. And that officer would have to supply what information he could as the basis of a report from the chiefs of staff to Diefenbaker.

But the chiefs would be greatly disturbed and angered at being used for a political purpose that comes dangerously close to official interference with the secrecy of the ballot. And they would be shocked that the father of the Bill of Rights should make such a demand, for the bill guarantees all citizens the right of "freedom of assembly and association."

They would be justified in asking him, if they dared, whether an inquiry into why sailors voted Liberal would not be governmental intimidation with respect to freedom of political association. But they wouldn't dare . . . theirs not to reason why. They would conceal their feelings behind a tight-lipped "yes, sir," and do as the prime minister instructed them.

The New Brunswick election results indicate the army and the air force react politically the same way as the navy.

At Campagetown, the huge army base near Fredericton, between 80 and 85 per cent of the nearly 6,000 soldiers voted Liberal on June 27, along with their wives. Unless the Tories gerrymander the riding of York-Sunbury to put the service vote in another constituency (or close down the camp!), next election the troops are most likely to defeat Tory MP Chester MacRae, whose 1958 majority was only 2,825.

At Moncton, the personnel of the RCAF supply depot vote in an area that is overwhelmingly Tory. The vote at their poll was about 80 per cent Liberal.

There can be no doubt that the service vote in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick was one of dissatisfaction with the Diefenbaker government. The rolling stone life in the services does not encourage great interest in provincial elections as such.

Service sources report that indecision and vacillation at the top are part of the answer. They say that on important issues Defence Minister Peckers veers with every breeze from the East Block, in his efforts to second-guess the PM and Foreign Minister Green.

The forces want modern weapons they haven't got. They can't get a firm yes or no on their request. The army is not happy in its civil defence role. Inter-service rivalry—for money and for airplanes, mostly—makes each service suspect Peckers of favoring the others. And in the service there's always been a tendency to blame the brass—including the political brass now, it seems—for personal dissatisfactions.

The Packstack

Back to Front

By GREGORY CLARK

TO my horror, a female member of our family circle, settling herself comfortably in a garden chair on the back porch and picking up a paperback murder mystery, calmly opened it at the back and began reading the last two or three pages.

"Good heavens, woman!" I cried. "I always read the first first," she replied.

"But you ruin the whole intention of the book," I protested. "The very purpose of a mystery story is to keep you in suspense."

A Governor-General

Tells of His Job

(From The New Zealand Herald)

A GOVERNOR-GENERAL is a person rather like a wicket-keeper—he is definitely part of the game but he is seldom noticed until he makes a mistake.

Five thousand school children were told this by the Governor-General of New Zealand, Lord Cobham, who gave these other definitions of a Governor-General and his duties:

"His duties are manifold and diverse. He opens everything including Parliament (once a year), new memorial halls (once a month), old people's homes (once a week), new

"Not me," she declared. "I can't bear to be kept in suspense. So I read the end first, finding out who has done it. This allows me the extra pleasure of being the only person present, other than the author, who really knows the solution of the mystery. It is mighty nice to know more than anybody else in the whole story, including the detective. It gives me a lovely feeling of intelligent superiority."

While I watched, spellbound, she read the last couple of pages; and turned to the first page and launched into the tale.

The New Towns

By PIERRE VERNIER

A TOWN designed and built according to a well-conceived plan, a self-contained town which provides, in addition to houses, jobs, shops, schools, recreation and culture—there you have the "new town," a product of our industrial 20th Century.

Of course, there is nothing new about the idea of constructing an entire city from the ground up on the basis of a plan. There have been examples throughout history—from Akhetaton to Rome and Chandigarh—citadels, industrial towns or merely new creations. What is new about the "new town" is first that it is planned as an autonomous, self-sufficient entity and, second, that its problems are considered as a whole by the architect, the economist and the sociologist.

Attempts at integrated planning and building have led to some interesting experiments since 1940. About 200 of these are analyzed in a book "New Towns," which UNESCO has just published. It is compiled by Jean Viet and published with a report written by Dame Evelyn Sharp, Permanent Secretary to the Ministry of Housing and Local Government, of Great Britain.

These towns, writes Dame Evelyn, have grown out of conditions to be found to a greater or lesser degree in every industrial country: congestion, over-crowding, industrial inefficiency and the vulnerability of the old towns. At the same time, new industry, new raw materials and the development of new sources of power also create a demand for new towns.

Plans must be drawn up before the old towns become unfit to live in—too big, too crowded, too noisy, too inhospitable for civilized living; before mushroom towns have sprung up around the new industrial developments; before land and money and health have been wasted by haphazard building in the wrong places; in short, before it is too late.

Britain's experience, in particular, is well worth studying. Since 1945, 15 new towns have been started which will eventually house nearly a million people. About 400,000 people are already living in them and two of them are nearing completion.

These centres are quite different from satellite-towns where workers have to travel relatively long distances to work in another city, or from old towns which have been enlarged by building on new suburbs. Their main purpose is to decentralize industry and population from the inhumanly large and hopelessly congested old towns.

"By creating new towns to which work and workers can move, room can be made to clear and redevelop the centres of old towns with wider roads, better houses, open spaces and modern schools," notes Dame Evelyn.

In order to be self-sufficient in all daily requirements—work, shopping, education, recreation—the new towns must be built at a certain distance from the big cities. The eight new towns round London are at distances ranging from 18 to just over 30 miles, while East Kilbride is 12 miles from Glasgow.

Not every new town is a "decentralization town." Corby, Aycliffe and Cwmbran are all being built close to existing industrial centres to which workers were previously travelling many miles daily. Peterlee and Glenrothes are mining towns, designed to provide better living conditions for miners scattered in small and often miserable villages over the coalfields.

The British new towns could not have succeeded, the writer points out, if there had not been established simultaneously a firm control over all building and the use of land. London, Glasgow and the other big cities would have spread, and would spread still, if building were allowed on their outskirts.

Green belts have been established around the big cities whose spread has thus been halted and, within these cities, the expansion of industry is tightly controlled.

"Now we all know the earth is round," said a school teacher. "Tell me, Billy—would it be possible for you to walk round the earth?"

"No sir," replied Billy. "And why not?"

"Because I sprained my ankle this morning."

The young lady eyed her escort with extreme disapproval. "That's the fourth time you've gone back for more punch," she said coldly. "Doesn't it embarrass you at all?"

"Why should it?" the young man shrugged. "I keep telling them I'm getting it for you."

The doe-eyed, blonde and svelte beauty asked the librarian for a good book to read.

"Do you want something light or do you prefer heavier books?" she was asked.

"It really doesn't matter," the beauty declared. "I have my car out side."

Manitoba Birthday Slips Official Minds

WINNIPEG (CP) — Yesterday was Manitoba's 90th birthday—but hardly anyone seemed to know about it.

Premier Duff Roblin was asked whether he had anything to say about the birthday.

"What birthday?" he asked.

Reminded that it was on July 15, 1870 that Manitoba entered confederation as Canada's fifth province, he replied: "Holy smoke! Is it today?"

Recovering quickly he said, "Manitoba has never looked better. You can say I'm very pleased with this province."

A government information branch spokesman, asked whether anything in the way of a celebration was planned, replied: "This is awful—it completely slipped my mind."

CHRISTIAN HERTER

Verbal Assault Drafted

Ike Fed Up with Kremlin, U.S. Gets Tough in Return

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, under heavy Soviet pounding, has largely abandoned its post-summit policy of seeking businesslike negotiations with Moscow and has undertaken a get-tough strategy of its own.

Evidence of this change is becoming apparent. It will be fully developed at the United Nations next week when the U.S. and Russia join battle over charges and counter-charges of threats to world peace.

State Secretary Christian Herter and his aides are reported to be preparing a massive verbal assault on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's activities since the abortive summit conference at Paris two months ago.

President Eisenhower is described by officials here as fed up with Khrushchev's incessant campaign of accusations against the U.S.

Two moves by the state department this week reflected the developing new tough line. The department announced a note to Moscow calling off indefinitely negotiations scheduled for next Monday on an air transport agreement between the two countries.

At the same time the department issued a new warning to Khrushchev to keep his hands off Latin American countries, particularly Cuba. It denounced him for claiming that the 137-year-old Monroe Doctrine of "America for Americans" is out of date and for trying to scuttle the U.S.-Cuban treaty covering the American naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

Khrushchev, the department asserted, is trying to establish a "Bolshevik doctrine" under which he would make use of "Soviet military power in support of Communist movements anywhere in the world."

The question has arisen here whether the negotiations among the United States, Britain and Russia on a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests will be continued at Geneva.

State department officials said Washington has no intention of breaking off the nuclear test conference and they doubt that Moscow will do so. This three-power negotiation there for stands as the only important exception to the general collapse of East-West diplomacy.

LONDON (UPI) — A London church has placed this sign on its door: "Wanted—workers for God. Ample overtime."

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — The Board of Trade yesterday passed a resolution censuring the Prince George Citizen for "deplorable publicity given . . . to the inactivity of the proposed Pacific Northern Railroad."

The resolution mentioned stories concerning unemployment and an influx of transients to work on the railway that will stretch from north of Prince George to the Yukon border.

The resolution was passed 33-3, with six abstaining. There are 220 members in the board.

The Citizen says only 10 men have been employed on the PNR since construction of the railway's marshalling yards was started at the end of last month.

Harold Moffat, sponsor of the motion, said in an interview after the meeting stories about the unemployment should not have been printed. "You should only print stories that are optimistic or reflect credit on the city. We in Prince George can do without the Citizen. How can we sell Prince George if it keeps printing pessimistic stories like that?"

The meeting refused however to approve a similar resolution directed at city council for having warned the unemployed to stay away from Prince George.

"We didn't want to strain the friendly relations now existing between the board and the council," said Alex Bowie.

The Citizen has said in stories that jobless workers are attracted to Prince George by publicity about the PNR and they can't find work. The crime rate was increasing with the number of jobless.

Senate Already Passed Bill

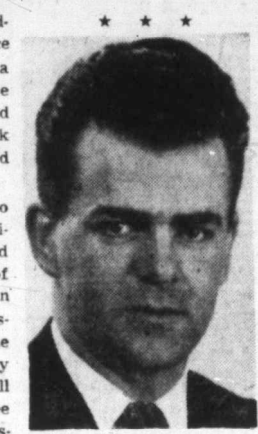

Adultery Story 'Faked' Husband to Tell Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — A defendant in a parliamentary divorce case now is willing to tell a Commons committee that the whole story of his alleged adultery is a fake, Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) said Friday.

Mr. Howard, one of the two CCF MPs conducting a filibuster in the Commons aimed at ridding Parliament of handling divorces, said in an interview that the bill in question — already passed by the Senate and all but passed by the Commons — probably will be reviewed by a committee of the lower house Wednesday.

ADULTERY The bill, No. 479, would grant a divorce to Lise Des-Rosiers Eccles from her husband, William Eccles, on the grounds of adultery.

Friday, Mr. Eccles, a Toronto journalist, described as "fantasy" the testimony given before the Senate divorce committee, which hears the evi-

'Friendship' Party Coming

A party of 29 members of the English Speaking Union from New York will spend next weekend — Friday through Sunday — in Victoria.

They will visit the area during a 16-day "friendship flight" across Canada — the first Canadian tour the group has arranged.

The visitors will be guests of the Victoria English Speaking Union at a dinner during their stay.

Stock Prices Strengthen At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market closed the week with most sections showing gains. Industrials and base metals both registered gains of more than a point and western oils, falling rapidly near the close, managed to hold, fractionally, on the plus side. Gains lost a few decimal places.

Toronto - Dominion Bank, plying the leaders most of the day, gained 1 1/2 at 52 1/2. Bank of Montreal was up 1/2 at 52 1/2, while Bank of Nova Scotia improved 1/2 at 58 1/2.

Steele influenced steels up 1/2 at 69 1/2, with Algoma up 1/2 at 32 1/2.

Minnesota and Ontario Paper gained a point at 28 1/2 and 29 1/2 respectively.

Among speculative issues, Cominco jumped a point at 17 1/2, and Dome was up 1/2 at 17 1/2.

Geco was off 1/2 at 17 1/2, while among senior uranium, Rio Algom lost 20 cents at $6.45 and Denison gained 25 cents at $9.25.

Western oils moved in the five and 10-cent range.

Losses at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—After making fractional gains in the afternoon, the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges slipped lower amid light trading.

Howard Smith Paper at 35 1/2 and Dominion Gas at 70 1/2 led losers, both down 1/2. National Steel Car slipped 1/2 at 12 1/2 and Ogilvie Flour dropped 1/2 at 40.

Dominion Steels led winners, up 1/2 at 59 for a new high. Montreal Trust added 1/2 at 43 1/2 and Ontario Steel climbed 1/2 at 19.

In mines, Satellite Metal fell 29 cents to 60 cents. McIntyre gained 1/2 at 24 and Hudson Bay climbed 1/2 at 45 1/2.

Rails Hold Gains

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks finished in a broad scramble of minor price changes in some of the slowest trading since Oct. 12, 1959.

The rails, which have been hard hit in recent declines, snapped back with a gain on average to 138.80 up 0.45. The group improved on gains of 2 1/2 in Great Northern, 1 1/2 in Louisville and Nashville, and 1 1/2 in Delaware and Hudson.

Industrials closed at 630.24 off 1.08 in their average. Du Pont led the blue chips with a loss of 2 1/2 to 20 1/2. Alcoa and Union Carbide were off more than 1 each, while Westinghouse rose 1/2 and General Foods a point.

The aircrafts lost some altitude after outperforming the market most of the week. Chance Vought dropped 1 1/2. Boeing gave up 1/2 and Douglas 1/2.

Chrysler held up well in the late selling. Standard Oil, Ohio added 1 1/2 and Amstar 1/2. Point, Drugs showed gains of nearly 2 in American Home Products, more than 1 in Upjohn and Bristol Myers, and 1 1/2 in Vicks Chemical.

Electronics were also trimmed from their best levels in late selling. Motorola and IBM gave up a point or more, while Varian closed up 1/2 more than two at its best.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG (CP)—Better export interest in Canadian wheat and barley appeared, with the price of wheat going to the United Kingdom and Japan and about 200,000 bushels of barley to the U.K.

Buying for international accounts appeared in flax trade. Light offerings resulted in firming prices.

Oats and barley trade disclosed some shipping orders. Oats prices turned higher, influenced by reports of a small supply available for sale.

Rye trade was irregular and light.

CHICAGO (AP)—Soybean

futures gained their first price advance in four days. The grains were steady to weak.

have been met the Class "A" and "B" shares will rank equally with the old common shares, some of which are held by the public and which have recently been trading in Vancouver at $6 a share.

It is estimated that under the new production contract the old common shares will be worth between $2 and $3, well below the current market price.

If the shareholders and bondholders approve, Cominco will provide a concentrator, power plant, camp, and building and equipment at the mine at a rental cost of $125 a ton, variable as to the market price of copper.

Three new comers elected to the board of directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce as a result of the annual annual meeting.

They are A. E. (Bert) Walters, manager of the main office of the Bank of Montreal; J. Howard McKay, manager of the Hudson's Bay retail store, and George Farmer, head of the construction firm that bears his name.

Six other directors elected have previously held office on the board. They are Herbert Barnes, manager of B.C. Forest Products sawmill; R. W. Gilmour, manager of T. Eaton Co. store; J. C. Haddock, vice-president of Woodward's Stores; Sam Lane, of the Old England Inn; J. H. Wallace, Yarrow's Ltd., and Dr. R. J. Wride, Surgeon.

Fifty-four per cent of the members took part in the election, which was described by Alan Leith, chairman of the election committee, as "very close."

The directors are elected for a two-year term and will join the board along with nine others elected a year ago. They will at their next meeting appoint a new president and vice-president.

Profit Sharers To Get Relief

OTTAWA (UPI)—Finance Minister Donald Fleming Friday introduced legislation to ease income tax provisions covering profit-sharing plans.

He said the commons, however, the measure would not be proceeded with at the current session but would be re-introduced after interested parties had an opportunity to make representations about it.

The proposed measure would implement Mr. Fleming's budget promise to exempt profit-sharing income from tax as long as it is held by a trustee and accumulated.

Cold Lake Rises

VANCOUVER—Mines were led higher by Caribou Copper which added 25 cents at $1 in active trading. Craigmont added 20 cents to 5.80 but Silbak Premier at 42 and Colwick at 32 remained firm.

Peace River added a cent at 32 among oils.

Cold Lake Pipe rose to a new high of 4.00 among industrials but most other industrials were easier. Macmillan-Forsyth was $14 1/2 while Canadian Collieries dropped 25 cents at $7 1/2.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal bond markets were quiet and prices were unchanged.

Jerome Cracks World 100-Metre Dash Mark

Eves Runs Second

SASKATOON — Harry Jerome, 19-year-old sprint sensation from Vancouver, broke the recognized world record for the 100-metre dash here last night, running it in 10 seconds flat to clinch a berth on Canada's Olympic Games track and field team.

In bettering the world mark by one tenth of a second, the husky Negro star beat out Victoria's Lynn Eves and George Short of Saskatoon, tied for second at 10.5, and became the second runner in history to post a time of 10 seconds.

In Zurich last month a German sprinter, Armin Hary, also covered the distance in 10 seconds but his record has not yet been officially recognized.

The established record of 10.1 seconds was first set by Willie Williams of the United States in Germany in 1956. It has since been tied by Ira Murchison of the United States and Leamon King, another American who did it twice in a week in 1956.

TELT GOOD

Jerome, who coasted in his qualifying heats with times of 10.7 and 10.8, took the news of his record calmly, saying he "felt good about the race" as soon as he broke from the blocks.

"I got a good start and I guess I was ready for a good one. I haven't had a good run for a couple of weeks," the 165-pounder said.

There was a false start in the record-breaking final, and an official remarked at the time that it would probably throw Jerome off if he was keyed for a record run. But Jerome broke perfectly and was five yards ahead of Eves and Short at the finish. Three timers clocked him at exactly 10 seconds, and the wind was well below the four-mile limit for record recognition.

BEAT NORTON

Jerome, who beat world record-holder Ray Norton of the U.S. in the 100-yard dash this year, ran three 100-yard dashes in 9.4 seconds in May. He will meet Norton again in the 100-metres at Rome, and will be the only runner in the field who has beaten him.

Short and Eves finished in a dead heat at 10.2 in their qualifying heat, but their effort makes them strong contenders for team berths as members of the 400-metre relay team. Eves will meet Jerome again today in the 200-metre event.

VALERIE TOO

Jerome's 16-year-old sister, Valerie, also came out with a record, running the women's 100-metres in 11.8 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than the Canadian mark, in one of the heats. However, she was beaten in the final by Nancy Lewington of Toronto, who also ran in 11.8 as Miss Jerome placed second. Old record was held by Diane Matheson of Montreal.

Terry Tobacoro, of Cumberland, reporting that he had arrived at the Canadian trials "feeling fit and strong for the first time," set a Canadian record of 46.8 in the men's 400 metres. Previous record was 47.3.

Maycocks moved to within a game of first-place Morrison in the senior "B" men's softball league last night, downing Chinese Students, 10-1, at Heywood Avenue Park on a five-hitter by Gordy Huston.

A doubleheader is scheduled Sunday in the senior "A" league at Central Park. Farmers play Gorge in a league game at 2 p.m., and the same clubs meet again at 6:45 in a benefit game for Joe Patterson of Gorge, who broke his ankle in a recent game.

Last night's game between Sooke and Domains was defaulted to Sooke.

Fun and Games Before Semis

Right-hander Ernie Broglie blanked Chicago Cubs on one hit—a second-inning single by Ed Bouchee—and struck out 14 as St. Louis Cardinals won, 6-0. And Brooks Robinson became the first American Leaguer to hit for the cycle in three years, getting a home run, a double, a triple and a single as Baltimore Orioles beat Chicago White Sox, 5-2, behind Milt Pappas to break a five-game losing streak.

Broglie, now 10-4 for the season, walked just two men and his strikeout total was high for a nine-inning National League game this year.

Cincinnati handed the Pirates their second straight loss, beating Bob Friend, 4-1, and the second-place Milwaukee Braves gained a game with a 7-5 win over Philadelphia Phillies. Joe Adcock got the Braves started with a grand-slam homer in the fourth inning.

The Yankees blew a 3-0 lead at Detroit and were whipped by the Tigers, 8-4, as Eddie Yost, Frank Bolling and Rocky Colavito homered. Colavito's blast was his 18th of the season and fourth in three games. Mickey Mantle hit his 21st for the Yankees.

The second-place Cleveland Indians beat Washington Senators for the ninth straight time, 4-0, on a four-hitter by Jim Perry.

Amateur Title Settled Today

All-Victoria Golf Final; Kerr Plays Dick Munn

For only the third time since Ken Lawson made it in 1937 the B.C. amateur golf champion will be from Victoria.

That was decided yesterday when Victoria champion Laurie Kerr and city junior champion Dick Munn eliminated Vancouver opponents in semi-final play at the Uplands Golf Club.

Today, over 36 holes, one of them will join Jim Squire (1950) and Bob Fleming (1953) as Victoria's post-war winners.

Kerr had quite a tussle, and needed a break or two and a couple of clutch putts to get by Bud Bird, 27-year-old Glen Oaks champion, who, in four years of golf, has developed so fast he plays to one handicap. But the 17-year-old Munn, who is at his best in match play surprised more than a few observers with a comparatively easy 3 and 2 win over 21-year-old Joe Jeroski.

TOUGHER HALF

Kerr came through the tougher half of the draw with victories over Fred Painter by 5 and 3, Bill Wakeham by 3 and 2 and defending champion Ron Willey by 4 and 2 to reach the semis. Munn took out Vancouver's Ron Cliff by 2 and 1, Roger Ross by 3 and 1 and Frank Scroggs by 7 and 5.

Munn, who qualified with a six-over-par 71-75, was over par for the first time in match play when he finished off Jeroski by halving the 16th. He was three over after 12, birdied 13 and 14 to end one over.

Turning point against Jeroski probably came on the ninth hole, when the match was all square.

FRIENDLY BRANCH

Having won the eighth, Munn teed off first on the ninth and his drive was apparently headed deep into the trees on the right when it hit a friendly branch and bounced 50 feet back on the fairway, directly in front of the green. Jeroski was not so fortunate, his tee shot settling well into the woods. He came out to the edge of the green, but Munn had chipped within three feet and was to win with a par three.

They halved the 10th and 11th in pars and the 12th in bogey fives. Jeroski's second shot on 12 bounced off a car parked by the pro shop and left him stymied behind an oak. But he still managed his five, good enough to halve when Munn's putter deserted him momentarily.

INTO ROUGH

Continuing to have trouble with a hook, Jeroski put his drive into the rough on 13 and just managed the edge of the green with his second. Munn was well down the fairway, chipped to within eight feet, went two up when he ran down the birdie putt.

The Vancouver golfer outdrove Munn on the dogleg 14th but the city junior unleashed a long brassie, right on line and ending only five feet off the green. Jeroski's second hit the trap on the right, he blasted out, 20 feet away and needed two putts while Munn rolled his chip to three feet, sank the putt for a birdie.

Both had troubles on the easy 280-yard 15th before settling for par fours which left the match doleful. When Jeroski's 20-foot bid for a birdie duce on 16 rimmed the cup it ended there.

Bird, no stylist with that backswing but a scrapper who can putt, forced Kerr to a 12-footer on 16 and a five-and-a-half footer on 18 to prolong this tense semi-final.

Hard Courts Tourney Down to Finals Today

Finals in all events of the city hard courts tennis championships will be held today at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club starting at 10 a.m.

In the feature match of last night's semi-finals, Maureen Hibberson and Jack Parker upset top-seeded Ann Levee and George Bishop in the mixed doubles. In today's final they meet Wendy Cox and Ed Hedley, who downed second-seeded Tammy Elmsley and Dave McKenzie, 6-4, 6-1.

Top-seeded Ray Alderger defeated Gordon Hartley, 6-2, 6-2, and will meet Warren Cameron in the final. Cameron defeated Doc Miller in three sets.

Mrs. Hibberson defeated Judy Cornwall, 6-1, 6-2, to advance against Mrs. Levee in the women's singles.

Today's draw:
10 a.m.—Toid and Thomas vs. Levee and Conley, and D. Lucie-Smith vs. Moffat and Pilsbry.
11—Ngai vs. Juelberg, Williamson vs. Houston.
1:15—Alderger vs. Cameron, Levee vs. Hibberson.
2:45—Elmsley and Lawrence vs. Hibberson and Elmsley, Mitchell and Alderger vs. Hartley and Hedley.
4:30—Hibberson and Parker vs. Cox and Hedley, Lawrence and Pilsbry vs. Jones and Alderger.

As it had been all week, Kerr's ability to beat par on "Uplands" so-called, "birdie alley," holes 13 to 17, inclusive, was to be the turning point.

He birdied the 445-yard, par five 14th to square the match and the 28-yard, par four 15th to go ahead, and, it seemed, take control.

But Bird was far from beaten. After Kerr's tee shot on the 135-yard 16th stopped only 12 feet away, Bird placed his 16 feet away and found the hole with a typically bold putt. Kerr, however, got his third straight birdie to retain his lead.

TWO BAD SHOTS

Then two bad tee shots almost cost him his chance at the championship. He topped the ball on 20-yard 17th, ended a good 100 yards short. He chipped 20 feet by, missed the putt and lost the hole when Bird dropped an eight-foot birdie putt.

Either over-correcting or bothered by a bus which went by just as he swung, Kerr looped his drive on 18 and wound up on the left side of the fairway, probably no more than 170 yards from the tee.

With Bird uncorking a 240-yarder squarely down the middle, Kerr was in trouble. He started the comeback with a No. 4 wood which was right on the pin and about three feet short of the green. Bird was on, about 35 feet away, to the left and past the pin.

CLUTCH PUTT
Kerr elected to use his putter, rolled up inside six feet and was faced with a clutch putt when Bird eased his putt close enough to be conceded his second putt. Taking the advice of caddy Vic Derman, Kerr stroked the putt softly for the left side of the cup, had the line correctly and the ball trickled in.

The extra hole was Kerr's all the way although Bird was to run into bad luck which left him with an impossible shot from the trap on the right.

Kerr split the fairway with a booming 285-yarder, was right on line with a low, straight six iron which left him only 20 feet away.

Meanwhile, Bird pushed his tee shot to the second fairway, hit the trap coming over the tees. There his ball lodged up against an over-hang and he couldn't blast it out with his first try. He got on in four, about 15 feet away, conceded when he failed to hole out in five. Kerr's first putt was safely up within two feet.

Going out, Bird and Kerr halved eight of nine holes with the city golfer having a one-up lead at the turn with a somewhat fortunate win on the second.

He put his second in the trap on the left, blasted out across the green, then holed a chip shot over the rise for a par four. Kerr also got a break on nine when Bird three-putted to hit the trap coming over the tees. There his ball lodged up against an over-hang and he couldn't blast it out with his first try. He got on in four, about 15 feet away, conceded when he failed to hole out in five. Kerr's first putt was safely up within two feet.

Mrs. Naysmith Four Over But Leading Team Tests

VANCOUVER — Mrs. D. Naysmith of Victoria and youngest Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver Friday took another step towards clinching berths on the B.C. team which will play in the inter-provincial golf match at Saint John, N.B., on Aug. 4 and 5.

Both shot 80s over the par-75 Shaughnessy Golf Club layout to add six points to their totals in the medal tests which will decide three of the four places on the team.

Mrs. Naysmith, the former Shirley Fry, leads with 26 points and Miss Hitchens is next with 24.

They are far ahead of the rest of the field. Closest to them is Ruth Wilson of Vancouver, who shot a 78 to add eight points to her total, which now stands at 11.

That put Miss Wilson one point ahead of Colleen Smith, who had an 81 to add five points to her total.

BEST FIVE ONLY
Mrs. Ken Lawson of Victoria shared honors yesterday with Miss Wilson but she started the day with a minus-two score and now has only six points. However, entrants will count only the best five of the six rounds and a good showing in the last two 18-hole tests, Saturday and Sunday, will enable her to throw out the bad round she had in the Victoria city championship at Gorge Vale.

Players get 10 points for meeting par, one less for each stroke over par. Mrs. A. DeGirolamo of Victoria was an automatic selection to the team as winner of the 1960 B.C. Close tournament.

Leaders, with yesterday's score in brackets:

Mrs. D. Naysmith, Victoria, 26 (80)
Gayle Hitchens, Vancouver, 24 (80)
Ruth Wilson, Vancouver, 11 (78)
Colleen Smith, Victoria, 10 (81)
Mrs. K. Lawson, Victoria, 6 (78)
Buzanne Pouffe, Vancouver, 5 (83)
Mrs. J. Campbell, Kelowna, 5 (83)
Mrs. M. Jutson-Petrie, Vancouver, 3 (84)
Mrs. A. Tolin, Vancouver, 1 (84)

U.K. Hockey League Folding

LONDON (Special) — J. F. Ahearne, secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association, said recently he could see little hope for any senior teams forming a British league next season. A past difficulty only lend strength to his view that the Canadian-imported sport which once thrilled thousands of British spectators is a thing of the past.

In the past three seasons, the surviving clubs have had difficulty in finding, and keeping Canadian players. Many returned to Canada and still others joined European clubs after receiving lucrative coaching offers. Attendance troubles also hit ice hockey in the same way they knocked many other British sports.

The final blow came shortly after the end of last season when Streatham, led by Billy Doherty, disbanded. Streatham, returning to the league after a long absence, won both the Autumn Cup and league championship and the withdrawal of the South London club left a big gap in the five-team league.

South Africa's cricket misfortunes in the current test series with England left the tourists lost by a decisive margin for the third straight match. Since the defeat after an England test victory, the South Africans have little to play for except to attempt to recover lost prestige in the final two matches.

The tourists have been accused of a lack of fight and courage since arriving in England, but no one can deny their courageous attempt to stage off defeat in the third test after they had been dismissed in the first innings for only 88 runs. For the first time in the series they buckled down to the task and held out for one day and part of the next, making England bat again and captain Colin C. Drey replace his fast bowlers with a spin attack that met with more success as the South Africans struggled on.

South Africa seemed doomed from the start of the series. Arriving with some apprehension about political unrest, the visitors ran into a storm over the throwing of Geoff Griffin and a number of English storms that have brought many a wet afternoon on the pitch. A request for a replacement for Griffin was turned down and then the South Africans lost the wicket-keeping of Waite, who still continued to bat and bowl well — in spite of a painful injury.

Unpopular decisions were also evident at St. Andrews, where Australia's Kel Nagle won the centennial offer with a record-breaking score. A torrential rainstorm forced R. and A. officials to postpone the fourth round until the following morning, a decision that might have been a blessing to the thousands of spectators but an extremely unpopular one among many of the leading professionals. It also caused accommodation headaches since a good number of golfers and spectators alike were due to leave St. Andrews immediately after the fourth round was scheduled to end.

One success was the United States champion, Arnold Palmer. The long-hitting American proved the most popular North American competitor since Ben Hogan and his storming finish was the highlight of the tournament.

Football's summer recess is coming to an end and already the pre-season activity is running at a lively pace. Billy Walker, one of the longest-serving First Division managers, has relinquished his post with Nottingham Forest while Blackburn Rovers, defeated cup finalists, are on the prowl for a new manager.

Norwich has announced a rash of signings in preparation for Third Division football and there is trouble in Middlesbrough and Newcastle.

Brian Clough, an England leader for two games last season, has refused to sign for Middlesbrough and after last year's feud with the management is unlikely to do so. George Eastman, the brilliant Newcastle forward and England youth international, wants a transfer from Newcastle so that he can take an attractive part-time job in London but the directors have flatly refused his request.

Near Upset Gives U.S. Netters Scare

The United States powered its way to a 2-0 lead over Canada in the first round of the North American zone Davis Cup tennis in Quebec City yesterday as Bernard "Tut" Barten made a stirring comeback to beat Bob Bedard and Barry MacKay trounced Don Fontana.

Bedard, apparently on his way to becoming the first Canadian in 30 years to win a major Davis Cup match against the United States, took the first two sets from Barten, 7-5 and 4-6. But the 32-year-old Barten, national clay-court champion for two straight years, battled back to win the next three, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

MacKay then polished off Fontana in 66 minutes, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, leaving his team needing just one more victory in the best-of-five series to advance into the second round against Mexico. Bedard and Fontana meet Earl Buchholz and Chuck McKinley of St. Louis in today's doubles match.

Meanwhile, Italy moved into the final round of the European zone for the fifth time in six years, beating the British, 3-0, at Wimbledon, and Sweden took a 2-0 lead over France in the other semi-final.

league teams, as a player-coach ... pitcher Ruben Gomez has been fired for insubordination by Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

TWO WORLD swimming records were set at Indianapolis yesterday in the U.S. women's AAU championships. Donna de Varona, 13, of Berkeley swam the 400-metre individual medley in 5:36.5 and Lynn Burke of Santa Clara set a 200-metre backstroke mark of 2:33.5 ... all-star swimmer Tom Hinton is still talking contract with B.C. Access to the choice hunting areas on Vancouver Island will be the aim of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association when it meets Monday at 8 p.m. at the Goldstream Clubhouse.

The access problem is a difficult one, but during the past few years much headway has been made by joint action of the various fish and game clubs on the Island. Usually access to timber area controlled by logging companies is gained for fish and game club members only, after an agreement of good behaviour and control.

Sometimes headway is lost when some irresponsible hunters decide to shoot up company equipment.

Bob Bood is access chairman for the Victoria club and will give a full report Monday. Ted Barsby of Nanaimo will be on hand to outline the whole Island access picture.

The next Monday, July 25, the fresh water fishing chapter of the Victoria Club will meet at the clubhouse and access to Cowichan River fishing holes and other fishing grounds will be main topic. Fish biologist Dave Hurn will be guest.

The fish and game club's drive for 1,000 members is gaining momentum as the hunting season comes nearer. Carl Carlson has signed 59 members, Tony Zaccarelli 48 members, Tony Baratta 44 members and club president Cliff Bate 41 members. Any member who signs up 50 new members gets a fine Stetson hat.

The time to check your guns and ammunition is now, before you blow your head off. That is the information given by the fish and game club which is attempting to get Hells Range for one day to sight in members' bore rifles.

The wild blackberry season is here now and if you want your wife to make one of those delicious pies, get out now and pick some. In a trip down Island Wednesday more than two dozen groups were noted collecting blackberries at the side of the road, especially in the Yellow Point area.

The Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club's season-long fishing derby is now under way and Al Taylor, popular bartender at Harbour House Hotel, is leading with a 21-pounder caught this week.

Entry fee is 50 cents and to be eligible fish must be 10 pounds or more. First prize is the Season Cup and $25; second prize is $15 and third prize is $10.

Mike Gorick of Qualicum Beach pointed out to us this week that a new crop of tourists are on Vancouver Island this year. They are from Alberta, and after Mike mentioned it we were surprised at how many Alberta cars there are travelling on the Island.

Many of them have never seen a boat and hardly any of them know anything about fishing. Mike told us. He said one Albertan came to him to rent some salmon tackle. He took a rod, four ounces of weight and a Lucky Louie plug, but never asked for a boat. He thought he was going to catch the salmon in the pools on the beach.

"We are glad to see them and they are catching on to the fishing quickly," Mike said.

Hidden Weights Next Week

King Fisherman contest Prince crest winners will be announced in tomorrow's Colonist. Hidden weight prizewinners will be announced next week.

One of the biggest coho entered in the contest so far—a 108-pounder from Cape Mudge waters—was weighed in at Fernell Camp this week by six-year-old Christine Flee of Sunland, Calif. A Lyman plug was the lure that worked for her.

Killer whales have been in the Quadra Island waters for the past three or four days, which is undoubtedly the reason for a sharp decline in fishing success in the area.

The coho are starting to come in at Mill Bay and several nice catches have been made of four and just under five-pounders. Some Colonist weighers have been recorded.

Bashful but happy at being kissed by Mrs. Kay Spencer, who saved him from drowning, young Dickie Hyzelendorn presented her with a $100 bill yesterday donated by an anonymous Colonist subscriber in Victoria. The money was in exchange for his 200-pound pet pig he had given Mrs. Spencer. —(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

'Today I Received Your $100 Bill'

By MRS. KEN SPENCER

As told to Charles Thompson

"Dear Sir:

"Today I received your $100 bill. It is the first one I have ever had or held. I'm all flustered, I'm not sure at all that it is real.

"Thank you very much for the deed you have done to make little Dickie Hyzelendorn happy.

"I may have saved him from drowning, and almost died doing it, but you and the Colonist have made us both happy and better off for what happened.

"We gave Dickie his pet (200-pound pig) back, and now I think part of this $100 will go towards getting a pet for my six children. We only had Curley a couple of days, but the children became fond of him. Now they miss him. I hope to see Dickie back in the water soon.

"His dad tried to get him to go swimming, but Dickie hasn't been in since that day. My doctor hasn't let me go in yet, but I hope to take the family swimming this weekend.

"We'll call the 'Hyzelendorns' and try to get Dickie to go with us. I don't want him to stay scared of the water.

"I've got the money spent so many ways that I've decided to wait until my husband gets in Friday from the logging camp.

"It's the first time I've been given anything. I'm still a little puzzled by it all, but it is awful nice of you."

Pearson Opposes Joint Arms Control

OTTAWA (UPI) — Liberal leader Lester Pearson yesterday solidly opposed the idea of joint Canadian-American control over warheads in the hands of Canadian forces.

"I would not accept a situation where nuclear weapons in the hands of Canadian soldiers could not be used without the consent of another government," he told the Commons.

"And that's what joint control means."

"Canadian forces in NORAD should be under the same coalition control as Canadian forces in Europe," he said.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green charged that Pearson's statement represented "quite an amount of hypocrisy." Negotiations on both nuclear arms and NORAD had started under the former Liberal government, he said.

RCN Ships to Participate In Portuguese Ceremony

OTTAWA (CP) — Four of the Canadian Navy's destroyer escorts will participate Aug. 6-15 in ceremonies at Lisbon, Portugal, marking the 500th anniversary of the death of Prince Henry the Navigator, defence headquarters said Friday.

Prince Henry the Navigator, a national hero of Portugal, lived from 1394 to 1460.

Stampede To Altar

BERLIN (Reuters) — Officials said, Friday West Berlin couples are in the throes of a marriage stampede. Registrars are snowed under with work, forcing couples to postpone weddings as long as two months.

Bar Association Opinion:

Bill of Rights Will Bring Many Legal Uncertainties

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Bar Association said Friday that enactment of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights will introduce many uncertainties into Canadian law which will have to be settled by the courts.

Donald McInnes of Halifax, association vice-president, told a special Commons committee that a "great deal of litigation will arise out of this bill."

Sections of the bill referring to fundamental freedoms and human rights would be raised as a defence in Canadian courts.

Mr. McInnes said various sections of the bill raise uncertainties because it is not known to what extent they modify existing law. One major uncertainty gaining force today was whether Parliament or the provincial legislatures may deal directly with human rights and fundamental freedoms "and, if either or both may, the extent to which such power may be exercised."

If the bill is enacted in its present form, he said, these uncertainties and many other questions must be answered by the courts.

"There will be great latitude for judicial lawmaking. Lawyers generally oppose granting wide powers to those who must apply the law, even the granting of discretion of our judiciary, for which we have the highest regard.

"It inevitably introduces, for some time at least, uncertainty into the law."

NANAIMO — one of many fast-growing cities served by B.C. Power Commission.

Announcing...

ANOTHER PROFITABLE OPPORTUNITY TO INVEST IN B.C.

B.C. Power Commission Bonds — just like the PGE Bonds which were oversubscribed last year — give B.C. families a golden opportunity to profit financially from our Province's dynamic growth.

The B.C. Power Commission is a public utility owned and operated by the people of British Columbia. It supplies low-cost electricity to more than 250 communities in Vancouver Island and Interior B.C., including such fast-growing cities as Nanaimo, Prince George and Kamloops. The steady growth and development of the Commission and the ever-increasing need for power throughout the Province makes these new 5% Parity Bonds an exceptionally good buy.

PARITY BONDS UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED BY THE PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA AND REDEEMABLE ANY TIME AT FULL PURCHASE PRICE

DENOMINATIONS: $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000.

INTEREST: Interest at the rate of 5% per annum will be paid quarterly on the 15th day of November, February, May and August during the currency of the bond.

DATE OF ISSUE: August 15, 1960.

DATE OF MATURITY: August 15, 1963.

REDEMPTION: Should you need the money in a hurry, you will be able to cash these bonds at par value at any time you wish, at any bank in the Province of British Columbia and at the principal office of the Commission's Bankers in Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Saint John, Halifax or St. John's.

LIMIT OF PURCHASE: There is no limit whatsoever to the amount you may purchase. However, in the event that this issue is over-subscribed, the B.C. Power Commission reserves the right to allocate bonds and to limit the amount which may be bought by any one purchaser.

REGISTRATION: Bonds of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $25,000 can be fully registered.

PLEASE NOTE: This will be the only parity development bond issue offered by the Province of British Columbia this year.

Thick Pad Must Be Laid

Arena Vote Hurried

Esquimalt is "hurrying" its sports centre proposal to the voters because contractors will have to lay a three to four-foot thick pad of stone and gravel before bad weather starts.

Construction of the pad, which lies below pipes and concrete, will start in time to avoid delays by the weather if voters approve the plan, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night. Circulars will be mailed to property owners as quickly as they can be printed, he said.

Municipal clerk J. W. Allan will be returning officer for the Aug. 13 vote on a $400,000 money bylaw for the arena on Esquimalt Road near Lyall. Plans call for an ice surface for hockey and curling.

An advance poll, for persons who want to vote and also get away for the weekend, will be held at the municipal hall from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Aug. 11 and 12.

On Saturday, Aug. 13, polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at both the municipal hall and 855 Craigflower Road.

Little Demand For Free Pork

Welfare recipients in Victoria city have come in far more slowly than anticipated to pick up the free federal surplus canned pork available to them in the last week, civil defence co-ordinator Commodore V. S. Godfrey said yesterday.

Rope for Sale But Balloons Still Stored

The several thousand feet of nylon rope used to hold aloft Victoria's sagging centennial balloons is now on sale to local yachtmen and other users, centennial trust fund chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said yesterday.

Agent, he said, is Rob Roy Macgregor.

But the 64 balloons themselves are still in storage.

Ald. Edgelow said he plans to visit Seattle the week after next and will try to sell them for use at the 1962 world fair in that city.

Proceeds from the sales will go towards a Greater Victoria civic auditorium.

Vandals Blamed For Grass Fire

Vandalism and arson were blamed for a grass fire at a forest service picnic site on East Saanich Road near John Dean Park Wednesday.

More than 1,000 gallons of water were required to snuff out the blaze.

Sidney-North Saanich volunteer firemen found evidence of picnic tables being carved up with knives or small hatchets.

Fire chief G. A. Gardner said chiefs from these efforts were used to kindle the blaze.

Prompt action by firemen confined the blaze to a small area and had it out in less than an hour.

"It didn't take long to put out the fire," chief Gardner said, "but I sure wish we'd caught somebody."

Man Chilled When Thrown Into Water

Tipped unexpectedly into the chill waters of Cordova Bay, and held helpless there for some minutes, J. H. Stevenson, 79, of 4965 Cordova Bay Road, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Just after 3 p.m. Mr. Stevenson stepped into his dinghy by the beach to go out to his bigger boat offshore. The dinghy dipped, throwing the elderly man into the water and holding him there for a few minutes.

Witnesses rushed to his help, while Saanich police were called. Mr. Stevenson was semi-conscious when pulled from the water.

3,600 Jobless Include Many School Graduates

Some 3,600 men and women including a large number of high school graduates in the Greater Victoria area are looking for work.

The level of adult unemployment stands 500 higher than at the same period 12 months ago. Most of the additional unemployed are men. Women looking for jobs are about the same as last year.

There are 2,500 men and 1,103 women registered with the National Employment Service office in Victoria.

Low employment levels in the shipyards and drop in house construction projects through restrictions in NHA loans are blamed by NES officials for the situation.

There are still some vacancies for girls in their late teens and women, picking the loganberry crop.

Would Cost Up to $500 Official Says

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black yesterday launched a campaign in conjunction with a national program to encourage building of basement "fallout" shelters.

He said a fallout shelter should be incorporated in every home.

In Victoria, the campaign began in apparently virgin territory. Building inspectors of Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay said they have never received an application for a shelter building permit.

But they may receive at least one soon. Mr. Black said he is considering building a shelter in his own home.

The minister exhibited copies of a federal booklet containing detailed instructions and working plans for construction of a basement fallout shelter, which can be obtained by writing to the office of the provincial civil defence co-ordinator at the legislative buildings.

In Victoria, the campaign began in apparently virgin territory. Building inspectors of Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay said they have never received an application for a shelter building permit.

AT LEAST ONE

But they may receive at least one soon. Mr. Black said he is considering building a shelter in his own home.

The minister exhibited copies of a federal booklet containing detailed instructions and working plans for construction of a basement fallout shelter, which can be obtained by writing to the office of the provincial civil defence co-ordinator at the legislative buildings.

DIRECT BLAST

"I want to make it clear that these shelters are not designed to protect against the direct blast effect of a nuclear explosion," Mr. Black said. "But they will provide adequate protection in an area covering thousands of square miles that would be contaminated by radioactive fallout from such a blast."

"Within a radius of three to six miles from the point of blast there will be almost complete destruction and there is little hope for survival. It should be pointed out that the most serious threat to British Columbia is expected to be from random explosions or fallout from attacks on more important targets rather than direct attack on a populated area in this province."

"Beyond the blast danger zone, however, there would be a much larger area in which life would be threatened by radioactive fallout. It is in this area that the fallout shelter would provide adequate protection."

'Hit-and-Run' Road Hog Forces Car Into Pole

A "road hog" last night forced another car into a telephone pole on Shelbourne and sped away before witnesses could obtain a description of his car.

Samuel Roy Dunlop, 1561 McMoran Avenue, was thrown head first through his windshield in the accident which caused an estimated $900 damage to his car. He was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Two Shelbourne Street residents verified his story to police that another car was crowding Dunlop to the side of the road while attempting to pass him near Freeman at 8:15 p.m.

Sandbox Artists

Modellers Praised

Central and Hollywood parks were picked as finalists yesterday in the annual city parks sandbox modelling contest.

More than 100 youngsters taking off from the cratered surface of the moon to the Vatican City, and from Disneyland to Victoria's Inner Harbor. There was even a volcano in eruption that belched flames.

City playgrounds director Gordon Hartley said yesterday judges praised the high standard of work by young sandbox modellers.

Prospect Program Reopens

Saanich municipality's summer recreation program at Prospect Lake School — cancelled last week because of poor attendance — has been reopened, Reeve George Chatterton said last night.

Registrations will be accepted at the park Monday.

Cape Breton to Sail

Biggest Fleet Ship Joining Exercises

For the first time, next week, warships of Pacific Command will take part in full-scale anti-submarine exercises supported by their own fleet maintenance vessel.

Naval headquarters at Esquimalt announced yesterday HMCS Cape Breton, largest ship in the RCN's Pacific fleet, will accompany six destroyers of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron.

Air forces of Maritime Command Pacific will also take part in the exercises, to be staged July 21 through Aug. 3, in co-operation with the U.S. Navy.

They're Interested

Jaycees to Shift Fair to Colwood?

Victoria Jaycees are interested in moving their annual industrial and agricultural exhibition from Memorial Arena to a site on the 140-acre fairground at Colwood.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, president of the B.C. Agricultural Association, said this last night after members of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association—including Jaycees—inspected the property, the former Colwood army camp site. Ald. Edgelow is also president of the celebrations association.

"The Jaycees are interested in moving out there providing a building is available to house the trade exhibition and 5,000 people," Ald. Edgelow said. He said if the Jaycees do move their fair to Colwood they will move their prefabricated cattle pavilion to the grounds.

"We have to let them know by Sept. 30," Ald. Edgelow added.

Last night, Peter Forward, past president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, said the group has already started plans for the 1961 exhibition but added that "we're always open to improvement of the fair picture in the Greater Victoria area," and "we're always ready to move in the best direction for the benefit of the fair."

At the Gallery

Color, Richness, Verve B.C. Painters' Trademark

By INA D. D. UNTHOFF

The 50th annual exhibition of the B.C. Society of Artists held at the Vancouver Art Gallery during June of this year was an unusually large one.

It was limited to the works of elected members of the society and was divided into three groups, historical, retrospective and contemporary.

The historical group included works by some of the original members, the retrospective covered the work of 10 years ago and earlier and the contemporary group included paintings completed during the last two years.

It is chiefly from the retrospective group that the present exhibition of 30 oils has been collected.

I do not know the exact date of Lawren Harris' "Winter Afternoon," but it must be quite an early one. Such rich painting is always a joy to study.

B. B. Binning's "Ships at Quiet Anchor" is not a recent work but it ranks with his most distinguished canvases.

There are many interesting things in this group, though the artists may have changed their approach and have now developed in ways more in line with the contemporary movement. The painter of today is no longer tied down by conventions in painting technique, the approach is more creative, color is more exciting and has greater freshness.

John Korner's "Horn of Plenty" is a fine example of contemporary painting, fresh and lively.

Molly Boback is well represented by "Feeling for Prince Rupert," and Peter Aspell achieves fine luminosity of color in "Blue Possessed."

Jack Shadbol's "Abandoned Mining Town" makes use of curious shapes in the foreground contrasted by powerfully painted buildings.

Other outstanding canvases are "Coast Range" by Gordon Smith and "Breakwater" by William Mayra.

The B.C. Society of Artists was the first chartered art society in the province. It encouraged and developed the talents of many of our finest B.C. painters, many of whom have achieved international recognition for their work.

THE DAILY COLONIST

BIG GEORGE! by Virgil Partch

"You can let it out now, George! She's gone."

Green Implies in House It's Tougher to Talk To B.C. than U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Anticipation that a progress report can be issued shortly to the Canadian and American governments was expressed Friday by negotiators working on a treaty for joint development of the Columbia River.

Earlier, in the House of Commons, External Affairs Minister Green implied that negotiations with the British Columbia government are tougher than those between Canada and the U.S. on developing the Columbia's water resources.

The Columbia development, he said, had been a difficult problem because, in addition to the negotiations with the U.S., there had been federal negotiations with the B.C. government.

Which were the toughest, asked Opposition Leader Lester Pearson.

Mr. Green replied that he didn't think he had better answer that but he'd be willing to tell Mr. Pearson outside the House privately.

Garden Notes

July's Own Problems

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The middle of July brings its own special problems to the Vancouver Island gardener. Pests multiply at an astronomical rate and the birds seem to lose interest in keeping the bug population under control. Irrigation in one form or another is a must for, from now until well into September, our normal rainfall isn't enough to keep our plants going.

I think I have mentioned in previous columns something about my enthusiasm for the Ross Root Feeder and similar gadgets for injecting water and fertilizer directly to the roots of the plants. It is at this season of the year, when irrigation becomes a real headache, when the root feeder really comes into its own.

I bought mine three years ago and, at first I looked upon it as a more or less interesting garden gadget, but something of a luxury item, not too necessary for normal garden operations. Nowadays, I am finding that the root feeder is solving so many garden problems for me that I wouldn't want to get along without one even if they cost triple the price.

You see, like so many backyard gardeners, I don't manage my time or plan my routines too efficiently and, only too often, the essential garden chores get done in the wrong order. For instance, I may spend a whole day on the business end of a Dutch hoe, scuffling off the weeds and breaking up the crust that forms on finely pulverized soil when it is watered. Next day or the day after, I find the plants need water and, if I rig up the sprinkler for overhead watering, the crust forms again on the soil surface, undoing all my work with the hoe.

With the root feeder, with or without the fertilizer cartridges in the chamber, water can be injected straight to the roots of the plants without wetting the soil surface and the dust mulch can be maintained.

As you know, I am completely sold on the technique of mulch gardening and I try to keep the soil surface covered with straw, compost, lawn mowings or litter of any kind wherever possible. One disadvantage of mulching is that, when water is needed at the roots, the mulch is as dry as a bone and enormous quantities of water are needed before enough penetrates below the surface.

Here again, the root feeder comes into its own. The mulch can remain dry—it has a better insulating effect in that condition—and the water goes straight to the plant roots.

Another example of my mismanagement is in pest and disease control. It used to be, for instance, that I would treat all my roses very carefully and thoroughly with rose dust to keep down the aphids and prevent black spot and mildew, then set up the sprinkler and wash off all the protective coating from the leaves. Nowadays, in dry weather, one dusting of the foliage will last for weeks, for the leaves are never wetted except under natural rainfall.

The Viewing World Of Mort Sahl

(Canadian Mort Sahl is guest writer. John Crosby is on vacation.)

The serious countenances at the convention belonged to the news analysts. The delegates were the ones with the joy buzzers.

Anyway, onward! Our show is called "The Future Lies Ahead," and its sub-title "An Unconventional View of the Convention." There are not too many titles available for a convention program. My co-host on this show is David Susskind. The show goes on at 10.30, that is so I will have something definite to hang on to; and it has no closing time, so David will have something definite to hang on to.

The geography of our show must represent the ultimate in advertiser control.

We run around during the day and tape interviews which we splice with the live action on the air, which, in turn, consists of a map with pins in it. (Folklore has it that if we put enough pins in the map of Los Angeles and dance around the map, the city will be destroyed.)

I am so caught up with the spirit of public service that I am considering doing a live show in the fall. I have several offers:

One is a science show following "Twilight Zone," in which I give a rational explanation for the foregoing half-hour of mysticism.

One of the best shows they did last season was "The Jugger" with Tony Curtis. It had universal appeal. I know because I watched it with a Communist delegate to the United Nations as part of cultural exchange. It was a story of Tony Curtis finding faith, which was interrupted by a Ford tractor commercial. However, the radical in me enjoyed the part about the tractor, and thought the rest was a commercial.

I realize the responsibility of announcing a live show for the fall because once during my immaturity period I broke an appointment with someone and used the random excuse that I had to do a television show that night. A television columnist reported that I was carrying on discussions at a network. The following morning another columnist related that I was being considered for my own show on a network. By the end of the week, a third columnist had reviewed my first show and said it was excellent, but he doubted I could keep up the pace for 39 weeks.

The columnists may have been premature, but the story has a happy ending. That show has just been nominated for an Emmy in 1961.

Thank you very much.

Hollywood Today By Sheilah Graham

BB Reverts to Nudity

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Brigitte Bardot, dressed to the neck in "Babette Goes to War," reverts to her usual state of undress in "Dance with Me." I've seen a "still" from the movie. Brerother!! I hate to tell you, but "Babette" has not done as well as some of BB's more airy pictures.

Billy Wilder, top comedy director today—"Some Like It Hot" and "The Apartment"—will be more serious in his next, "Nijinsky," based on the life of the great but tragic Russian dancer. Billy's big problem is to find a young dancer who can act. Fred Astaire is too old, more's the pity—and so is Gene Kelly.

Vera Miles is hunting for a "sexy, glamorous role." She is tired of being good, drab, or mixed-up, career-wise. Are you listening, Alfred Hitchcock? (He owns her contract).

Young Tom Tryon, so good in "The Story of Ruth," will make love to Elana Eden again in "The King Must Die"—in Rome... fantastic situation in Hollywood last week: 23 pictures in production, 15 were being made away from Hollywood.

Joe Cotten has joined the recording band wagon. His album on the writings of Thomas Jefferson is titled, "The Refreshing Rebel."

Gene Kelly is proud and happy because he has been awarded the Legion of Honor by the French government. The only other American from show biz to receive this honor is Marlene Dietrich. Gene has starred in and directed many films in France, beginning with "American in Paris."

Jean Simmons hopes to return to Hollywood in about 10 days. She will divorce Stewart Granger in the Santa Monica courts, charging mental cruelty, or that good old standby, incompatibility. After the divorce Jean will return to Europe to make another movie.

Sammy Davis, who has stated recently that he will wed Mai Britt in Hollywood—instead of London, as planned earlier—will keep busy meanwhile with P.A.s across the country and roles in several TV series including "Rawhide," "Lawman" and "77 Sunset Strip."

Louis Jourdan and Dana Wynter own the still-to-be-taped version of "The Seventh Veil," and Louis has made a deal to sell it in Europe. The taping will be done this fall in Hollywood. Hope it will be as good as the movie version filmed five years ago by James Mason and Ann Todd.

John Smith and Luana Patten left on their honeymoon without telling anyone where they were going. John's "Laramie" producer, John Champion, had to employ detectives to bring the reluctant "Laramie" star back to start refilming his series.

Talking of TV stars making feature films, Martha Hyer describes Raymond Burr, after their "Desire in the Dust" picture: "Ray is a big, sexy Huey Long in the movie." For a moment, I thought she meant in real life.

Harry Belafonte apparently enjoys working with pretty ladies. After a couple of movies together, Belafonte is hoping to sign Inger for his next, "To Sir with Love," from a British best-seller.

'Circus' Aids Refugees

A miniature circus which raised $5.42 for World Refugee Year, was staged by Theresa Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hall, 1258 Tattersall Drive, and Arlie, Mary and Ruth Cunningham, 3330 Salisbury Way.

The youngsters held a talent show, sold ice cream, popcorn and coffee. There was also a white elephant stall and bean guessing contest.

A TONIGHT AT 8 AND 9

But Reception's Not Always Good

TV Reaches Most of Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — About 93 per cent of all Canadian households now are within reach of television, the Board of Broadcast Governors reported Friday.

However, the BBG indicated in its annual report tabled in Parliament that whether all these households actually get good TV reception depends on the shape of the countryside and distance from the television station.

93 PER CENT

The 93 per cent takes in what are known in the broadcasting industry as the "A" and "B" contours of all stations, as well as the "C" area. In general, the "A" contour is the area where there is good TV reception with "rabbit ears." In the "B" area, which requires the use of outdoor aerials, an acceptable signal is received at most locations about 90 per cent of the time.

Transport department standards do not recognize the "C" contours, which take in areas where television viewing requires a higher outdoor antenna and normally a good location.

Of the 4,035,000 households within all three contours, it now is estimated that 3,490,000 or 86 per cent have TV sets.

Within the A and B contours alone are 3,750,000 households, some 86 per cent of the total. In turn, about 88 per cent of these households have TV sets.

Meanwhile, the board's report estimated that 96 per cent of all Canadian households have at least one radio set.

But the CBC, in its own annual report also tabled in Parliament Friday, said the problem is one of bringing TV within reach of the 310,000 homes now outside the C contours of existing stations. Involved in this future coverage are 1,240,000 Canadians.

"The problem is one of economics," the CBC said.

ALSO LISTED

Also listed in the report as of concern to the governors are Canadian and American TV stations operating across the international boundary.

In one situation, the U.S. federal communications commission is licensing American stations designed primarily to serve Canadian markets—such as the one at Bellingham, district.

Breaks World Record

Brilliant Vancouver sprinter Harry Jerome broke recognized world record for 100-metre dash in Saskatoon yesterday at Canadian Olympic trials. Jerome, 19, was timed in 10 seconds flat, compared to record of 10.1 seconds. (See story Page 8.)

Sharp AttackGreen Slaps Critics of U.S.

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Howard Green defended the United States government Friday against some of the sharpest criticism heard in the Canadian parliament in years.

Opposition members, led by Liberal leader Lester Pearson and CCF chief Hazen Argue, attacked the Eisenhower administration on everything from reconnaissance flights to the president's golf.

PAST CRITIC

Green, a past critic of U.S. policy himself, backed the American government on all major points. He drew some support from the government benches, but none from the opposition side of the Commons.

At one point, he said simply that it "doesn't make sense for members of the Canadian House of Commons to make fantastic charges against the United States."

"PROPAGANDA"

The most outspoken criticism came from Argue. His slashing attack brought an accusation from minister without portfolio W. J. Browne that the CCF member was merely "repeating so much Communist propaganda."

'Mountain Of Grain' Deplored

OTTAWA (UPI) — CCF House leader Hazen Argue said Friday that "a mountain of grain from here to the Pacific Ocean" was the best evidence that Canada has not played its full part in Colombo Plan assistance.

Argue charged that the U.S. had lost prestige around the world through a series of "colossal mistakes."

"I do not like to see our foreign policy resting quietly in President Eisenhower's golf bag," he said.

GREAT ERROR

Argue accused Eisenhower of a "great error" in threatening military action against Cuba for its seizures of American-owned companies. World peace and national independence must supersede property rights, he said.

DOWN MIDDLE

Pearson joined the socialist member in protesting the suggestion of American military action. The Liberal leader also branded as "rather hasty" Eisenhower's action in applying the Monroe Doctrine against the possible establishment of a Communist government in Cuba.

All-Victoria Final For B.C. Golf Title

First all-Victoria final in the men's B.C. amateur golf championship since Jim Squire defeated Bob Fleming in 1950, was set up yesterday at the Uplands Golf Club when city champion Laurie Kerr and city junior champion Dick Munn won semi-final matches against Vancouver opponents.

Kerr defeated Bud Bird, 1 up, Munn knocked off Joe Jeroski, 3 and 2. (See story Page 8.)

Income UpCBC In Black

OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp and unforeseen rise in television revenues left the CBC at March 31 with a $6,103,722 margin of income over expense. Its biggest source of income was a 1959-60 parliamentary operating grant of $58,404,000.

Commercial revenues rose 18 per cent to a gross $38,162,337 and thus made up about 42 per cent of the publicly-owned corporation's total operating expenses of $30,058,615, not including more than $3,000,000 in depreciation.

Stone Ton Buries Worker

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Claude Bourdeau, 23-year-old construction worker, is in hospital following an accident in which he was buried under 2,000 pounds of stone.

"It's a miracle he's alive at all after being buried in all that rock," said a co-worker.

Hospital authorities said Bourdeau has a 50-50 chance of surviving compound fractures at the back of his skull.

A wheelbarrow loaded with a ton of cement blocks was being hoisted to the roof of the building when the mechanism failed. Wheelbarrow, blocks and a platform crashed down on Bourdeau and buried him.

Diplomats BusyCuba-U.S. Explosion Dreaded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Latin American diplomats huddled privately far into the night in an effort to head off an explosive showdown today between the United States and Cuba.

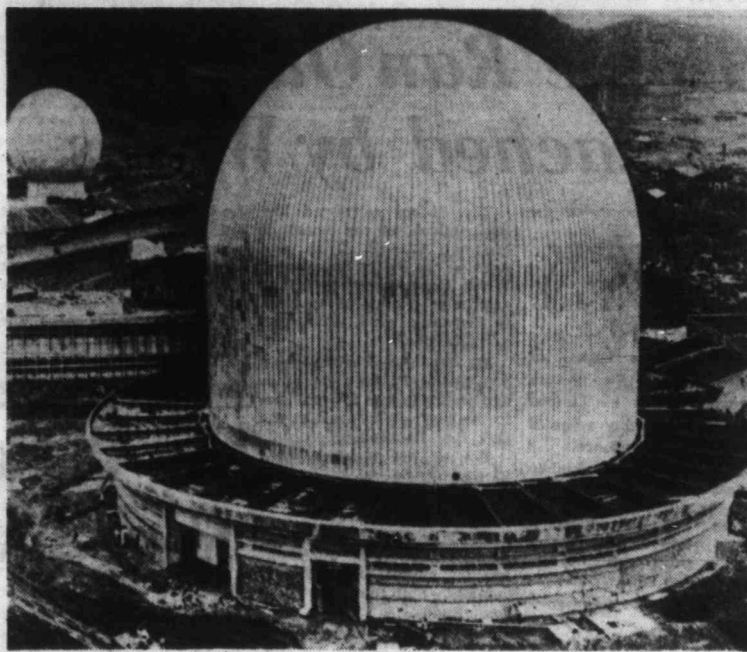

The Latin envoys sought to avoid a blowup at a council meeting of the organization of American states on Peru's appeal for an emergency western hemisphere foreign ministers' conference.

The session came less than 24 hours after Castro refused to disavow Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threat to fire rockets at the U.S. if this country intervened in Cuba.

DRY ROT

Charging that eight years of Eisenhower rule has led to "dry rot" and "payola mentality" in the eyes of the world, the 43-year-old Kennedy said his campaign will appeal to Americans' pride, "not their pocketbook."

"It holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

Canada's Gift-Reactor Running in India

Canadian know-how provided India's second research reactor at the atomic energy establishment at Trombay, near Bombay, which went into operation this week. The reactor, which is similar to one at Chalk River, Ont., is one of the largest isotope producers in operation. Canada spent some $9,000,000 in covering the cost of equipment and training of Indian personnel.

Bold Departure'More Sacrifice' Kennedy Demand

LOS ANGELES (CP) — John Kennedy, the Democratic party's new leader, warned Friday night he will demand courage and sacrifice from the American people if he is elected president next November.

In striking, risky departure from the traditional style of bidding for votes by promising Utopia, the Boston senator boldly suggested that those who want the "safe mediocrity of the past" need not vote for him.

HIGHER TAXES

His formal acceptance speech, delivered before a huge Coliseum crowd that had been treated to a free Hollywood-style extravaganza headed by famous stars, hinted at prospects of higher taxes to meet challenges of communism and poverty if the Democrats triumph over the Republicans in the Nov. 8 election.

His campaign, he said, would be pitched to meet the challenges of a new frontier instead of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" which promised security and success for those in need.

ENTITLED TO KNOW

"I am telling you now what you are entitled to know: That my decisions on every public policy will be my own — as an American, a Democrat and a free man."

He blasted Eisenhower as the man who promised in 1952 to go to Korea to stop the war and ended his career "by staying away from Japan."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican national chairman Thruston B. Morton denounced Sen. Kennedy's speech.

"I am shocked," Morton said in a statement, "that Sen. Kennedy should stoop to such low-level, malicious and undignified personal attacks on vice president (Richard M.) Nixon."

Air Fuel Losses Probed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A board of inquiry has been set up to investigate extensive losses of aviation gasoline at Sea Island RCAF Station.

Sqdn. Ldr. R. A. Trotter will be president of the board and will be assisted by RCMP and RCAF service police.

'Fake' Story In Contempt?

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Robert McCleave, chairman of the House of Commons divorce committee, said here Friday a copyrighted news story about a defendant in a divorce case is in contempt of Parliament.

The story (see Page 5) quotes the defendant as saying the evidence was faked.

Wagon Spill Kills Driver

CALGARY (CP) — Chuckwagon driver Don Chapin died before a crowd of 120,000 late Friday night as a result of a spill in competition at the Calgary Stampede.

His wagon toppled and he fell under the wheels of another chuckwagon. He was dragged some distance.

Forestry officials said most of the fires were started by lightning during the worst thunderstorm within their memories Wednesday. One authority said a fire started by lightning could smolder in a tree for days before breaking out. Some of these could be checked immediately by aircraft.

Drysdale said smoke from the blazes reached heights of 6,000 or 7,000 feet.

"Everywhere we went it was the same story, smoke and more smoke."

The smoke made flying hazardous for the 13 water-bombing and reconnaissance planes working in the area. One pilot was forced to crash land his aircraft.

GET OUT OF CONGO BELGIANS ORDEREDGiven 12 Hours By Lumumba

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Mutinous Congolese troops laid down their arms yesterday, the Belgian radio reported. With the United Nations soldiers arriving, Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba ordered Belgian troops to leave.

The radio report said the mutineers in the Leopoldville area gave up shortly after the arrival of the first UN units.

Lumumba also attacked the United States and accused Belgian troops of massacring Congolese citizens. He gave them 12 hours to get out of the country.

DEADLINE

Shortly before the deadline set by the premier, there was no indication that Belgium would comply with the demand.

Lumumba's two-hour attack in parliament followed delivery of a note from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denouncing "western aggression" in the new African republic and offering "any assistance" required by the Lumumba regime.

(In Brussels, the Belgian radio quoted a senior United Nations force officer, British Maj. Gen. Henry Templer Alexander in Leopoldville as saying mutinous Congolese troops in the Leopoldville area have laid down their arms.)

In Ottawa the Canadian government named three senior army officers, including Maj. H. W. King of Victoria, as its contribution to the special UN team to be sent to the strife-torn Belgian Congo.

DECLARE WAR

Lumumba's speech drew cries of "Declare war" from Parliament members, as he charged that "Belgian sabotage" would bring chaos.

"There will be no electricity or water in a week's time," he said. "If the situation continues there will not be a franc left in our national coffers and it will take five years to put the country back where it was before."

The Lumumba government officially notified Belgium that it had severed diplomatic relations with the Brussels government, a step that was announced yesterday. A formal note was handed to Belgian Ambassador Jean Van Den Bosch by a Congolese delegation.

The Congo crisis deepened as United Nations troops from Ghana and Tunisia began flying in and the United States started airlifting food from bases in France and Germany to head off famine in riot-torn cities and towns.

First shipment of 300 tons of flour left from Chateauroux, France, aboard an air force transport. Its destination was Leopoldville where food was running out in Congolese quarters of the capital city.

Lumumba warned that the arriving battalions of UN forces from Ghana and Tunisia, with more still to follow from Guinea and the Mali Federation, must not collaborate with Belgian troops who are supposed to withdraw as the UN forces take over.

"To save the nation we are ready to make a pact with the devil himself," the 34-year-old premier said.

Big Carrier May Call On Victoria

Confirmation is expected in the next few days of reports that the 63,000-ton U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea will visit Victoria this summer. No official statements have been given, but USN officers have surveyed port facilities at Ogden Point and have decided the giant carrier can be berthed here. The carrier's visit to Vancouver last year was a smash hit.

Thousands From B.C. Move to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A near-record exodus of 6,000 British Columbians to the United States in 12 months was reported Friday by the U.S. government visa department.

Hayden Raynor, U.S. consul general, said this is an increase of 20 to 35 per cent over figures for the previous year.

"The increase probably could be attributed to B.C.'s unemployment problem," he said.

Weary Gangs Fighting'Flames Twinkled Wherever I Looked'

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — "There were hundreds of fires marking our path with smoke below us and on all sides. As far as we could see there were patches of smoke and the twinkle of flames."

Photographer John Drysdale, of the Kamloops Sentinel, described Friday a flight over the 200-mile matchbox in this interior British Columbia district where more than 350 fires were burning and where new ones were breaking out at the rate of eight an hour.

More than 1,000 men and vast quantities of machinery Friday were fighting the fires that cast such a pall of smoke over the city that it was difficult to land fire-fighting planes at the unlighted airport and it got dark here hours earlier than usual.

Many of the weary men, conscripted from streets and beer parlors, working 16 hours a day for 75 cents an hour, were being transported from fire to fire by bus.

Forestry officials said most of the fires were started by lightning during the worst thunderstorm within their memories Wednesday. One authority said a fire started by lightning could smolder in a tree for days before breaking out. Some of these could be checked immediately by aircraft.

Drysdale said smoke from the blazes reached heights of 6,000 or 7,000 feet.

"Everywhere we went it was the same story, smoke and more smoke."

The smoke made flying hazardous for the 13 water-bombing and reconnaissance planes working in the area. One pilot was forced to crash land his aircraft.

Jerome Cracks World 100-Metre Dash Mark

Eves Runs Third

SASKATOON — Harry Jerome, 19-year-old sprint sensation from Vancouver, broke the recognized world record for the 100-metre dash here last night, running it in 10 seconds flat to clinch a berth on Canada's Olympic Games track and field team.

In bettering the world mark by one tenth of a second, the husky Negro star beat out Victoria's Lynn Eves and George Short of Saskatoon, tied for second at 10.5, and became the second runner in history to post a time of 10 seconds.

In Zurich last month a German sprinter, Armin Hary, also covered the distance in 10 seconds but his record has not yet been officially recognized. The established record of 10.1 seconds was first set by Willie Williams of the United States in Germany in 1956. It has since been tied by Ira Murchison of the United States and Leamon King, another American who did it twice in a week in 1956.

Track and field championships may be seen on television today at 2 p.m. on channels 2 and 6.

'FELT GOOD'

Jerome, who coasted in his qualifying heats with times of 10.7 and 10.8, took the news of his record calmly, saying he "felt good about the race" as soon as he broke from the blocks.

"I got a good start and I guess I was ready for a good one. I haven't had a good run for a couple of weeks," the 165-pounder said.

There was a false start in the record-breaking final, and an official remarked at the time that it would probably throw Jerome off if he was keyed for a record run. But Jerome broke perfectly and was five yards ahead of Eves and Short at the finish. Three timers clocked him at exactly 10 seconds, and the wind was well below the four-mile limit for record recognition.

BEAT NORTON

Jerome, who beat world record-holder Ray Norton of the U.S. in the 100-yard dash this year, ran three 100-yard dashes in 9.4 seconds in May. He will meet Norton again in the 100-metres at Rome, and will be the only runner in the field who has beaten him.

Short and Eves finished in a dead heat at 10.2 in their qualifying heat, and their effort makes them strong contenders for team berths as members of the 400-metre relay team. Eves will meet Jerome again today in the 200-metre event.

VALERIE TOO

Jerome's 16-year-old sister, Valerie, also came out with a record, running the women's 100-metres in 11.8 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than the Canadian mark, in one of the heats. However, she was beaten in the final by Nancy Lewington of Toronto, who also ran in 11.8 as Miss Jerome placed second. Old record was held by Diane Matheson of Montreal.

Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, reporting that he had arrived at the Canadian trials "feeling fit and strong for the first time," set a Canadian record of 46.8 in the men's 400 metres. Previous record was 47.3.

Amateur Title Settled Today

All-Victoria Golf Final; Kerr Plays Dick Munn

For only the third time since Ken Lawson made it in 1937 the B.C. amateur golf champion will be from Victoria.

That was decided yesterday when Victoria champion Laurie Kerr and city junior champion Dick Munn eliminated Vancouver opponents in semi-final play at the Uplands Golf Club.

Today, over 36 holes, one of them will join Jim Squire (1950) and Bob Fleming (1953) as Victoria's post-war winners.

Kerr had quite a tussle, and needed a break or two and a couple of clutch putts to get by Bud Bird, 27-year-old Glen Oaks champion, who, in four years of golf, has developed so fast he plays to one handicap. But the 17-year-old Munn, who is at his best in match play, surprised more than a few observers with a comparatively easy 3 and 2 win over 21-year-old Joe Jeroski.

TOUGHER HALF

Kerr came through the tougher half of the draw with victories over Fred Painter by 5 and 3, Bill Wakeham by 3 and 2 and defending champion Ron Willey by 4 and 2 to reach the semis. Munn took out Vancouver's Ron Cliff by 2 and 1, Roger Ross by 3 and 1 and Frank Scroggs by 3 and 5.

Munn, who qualified with a six-over-par 71.75, was over par for the first time in match play when he finished off Jeroski by halving the 16th. He was three over after 12, birdied 13 and 14 to end one over.

Turning point against Jeroski probably came on the ninth hole, when the match was all square.

FRIENDLY BRANCH

Having won the eighth, Munn teed off first on the ninth and his drive was apparently headed deep into the trees on the right when it hit a friendly branch and bounced 50 feet back on the fairway, directly in front of the green.

Jeroski was not as fortunate, his tee shot settling well into the woods. He came out to the edge of the green, but Munn had chipped within three feet and was to win with a par three.

They halved the 10th and 11th in pars and the 12th in bogey fives. Jeroski's second shot on 12 bounced off a car parked by the pro shop and left him stymied behind an oak. But he still managed his five, good enough to halve when Munn's putter deserted him momentarily.

INTO ROUGH

Continuing to have trouble with a hook, Jeroski put his drive into the rough on 13 and just made the edge of the green with his second. Munn was well down the fairway, chipped to within eight feet, went two up when he ran down the birdie putt.

The Vancouver golfer out-drove Munn on the dog-leg 14th but the city junior unleashed a long brassie, right on line and ending only five feet off the green. Jeroski's second hit the trap on the

Bashful but happy at being kissed by Mrs. Kay Spencer, who saved him from drowning, young Dickie Hyzelendoorn presented her with a $100 bill yesterday donated by an anonymous Colonist subscriber in Victoria. The money was in exchange for his 200-pound pet pig he had given Mrs. Spencer. —(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

'Today I Received Your $100 Bill'

By MRS. KEN SPENCER
As told to Charles Thompson

"Dear Sir:
"Today I received your $100 bill. It is the first one I have ever had or held. I'm all flustered, I'm not sure at all that it is real.
"Thank you very much for the deed you have done to make little Dickie Hyzelendoorn happy.
"I may have saved him from drowning, and almost died doing it, but you and the Colonist have made us both happy and better off for what happened.
"We gave Dickie his pet (200-pound pig) back, and now I think part of this $100 will go towards getting a pet for my six children. We only had Curley a couple of days, but the children became fond of him. Now they miss him.
"I hope to see Dickie back in the water soon.
"His dad tried to get him to go swimming, but Dickie hasn't been in since that day. My doctor hasn't let me go in yet, but I hope to take the family swimming this weekend.
"We'll call the Hyzelendoorns and try to get Dickie to go with us. I don't want him to stay scared of the water.
"I've got the money spent so many ways that I've decided to wait until my husband gets in Friday from the logging camp.
"It's the first time I've been given anything. I'm still a little puzzled by it all, but it is awful nice of you."

New Sewer System Discussed in Alberni

ALBERNI — More than 30 people turned out to a meeting called Thursday night by Alberni council for the purpose of discussing ideas for a sewer system in the city.

Ald. T. S. Barnett, who chaired the meeting, explained that after failure of the $565,000 sewer system bylaw put to the people at the time of the election last December, council passed a resolution calling for a complete re-examination of financing and engineering aspects of the plans.

The opinion that there is an immediate need for a sanitary sewer system in the city was expressed by Bert Bryant who questioned whether the original plan had been extensive enough.

"I think it should cover the whole city," he declared.

He emphasized the health hazard which he said was apparent in the city where the "ground is terribly polluted." He also said that a sewer system is essential for growth of the city because of the NHA ruling that loans for home building will not be issued in unsewered areas.

Don Lloyd, speaking for the sewer committee of Alberni Voters' Association, said that the NHA ruling should be publicized when another sewer bylaw is placed before the people.

While several suggestions were given on financing plans, no one replied when Ald. Barnett asked if anyone was opposed to the idea of the sewer being planned on the basis of its being a self-liquidating utility.

Discussed during the meeting were suggestions of a pre-payment plan, of a Greater Alberni Valley Sewer Board, of undertaking the work under a winter employment scheme.

Donald V. Watson suggested that council study the system installed by the army in what is now the Glenwood District. He expressed the opinion that the army's system involving several large septic tanks could be installed economically in certain "bad" areas of the city.

The methods of establishing rates for corner lots and for vacant property were brought up.

Television technicians reported freak receptions had been received in several areas near here in the last few months, but evidently not as good as the reception during the last week.

Thick Pad Must Be Laid

Arena Vote Hurried

Esquimalt is "hurrying" its sports centre proposal to the voters because contractors will have to lay a three to four-foot thick pad of stone and gravel before bad weather starts.

Construction of the pad, which lies below pipes and concrete, will start in time to avoid delays by the weather if voters approve the plan, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night. Circulars will be mailed to property owners as quickly as they can be printed, he said.

Municipal clerk J. W. Allan will be returning officer for the Aug. 13 vote on a $400,000 money bylaw for the arena on Esquimalt Road near Lyall. Plans call for an ice surface for hockey and curling.

An advance poll, for persons who want to vote and also get away for the weekend, will be held at the municipal hall from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Aug. 11 and 12.

On Saturday, Aug. 13, polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at both the municipal hall and 855 Craigflower Road.

Little Demand For Free Pork

Welfare recipients in Victoria city have come in far more slowly than anticipated to pick up the free federal surplus canned pork available to them in the last week, civil defence co-ordinator Commodore V. S. Godfrey said yesterday.

As a result, distribution of the pork at civil defence headquarters, 1840 Blanshard, will continue for another week, he said. The city welfare recipients, so far have claimed only about half the supply.

Distribution will start Monday in the adjoining municipalities.

The pork will be available to Saanich welfare recipients with welfare health services identification cards at the welfare office in No. 1 Saanich firehall, 3681 Douglas, to Oak Bay recipients at the civil defence office at the rear of the municipal hall; to Esquimalt and View Royal recipients at 1237 Esquimalt Road, and to Langford and Colwood recipients at St. Matthew's Church hall, Goldstream Road.

In each case, the hours will be from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, except Wednesday when the distribution offices will close at noon.

Proceeds from the sales will go towards a Greater Victoria civic auditorium.

Agent, he said, is Rob Roy Macgregor.

But the 64 balloons themselves are still in storage.

Ald. Edgewood said he plans to visit Seattle the week after next and will try to sell them for use at the 1962 world fair in that city.

Would Cost Up to $500 Official Says

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black yesterday launched a campaign in conjunction with a national program to encourage building of basement "fallout" shelters.

He said a fallout shelter should be incorporated in every home.

In Victoria, the campaign began in apparently virgin territory. Building inspectors of Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay said they have never received an application for a shelter building permit.

AT LEAST ONE But they may receive at least one soon. Mr. Black said he is considering building a shelter in his own home.

The minister exhibited copies of a federal booklet containing detailed instructions and working plans for construction of a basement fallout shelter, which can be obtained by writing to the office of the provincial civil defence co-ordinator at the legislative buildings.

DIRECT BLAST "I want to make it clear that these shelters are not designed to protect against the direct blast effect of a nuclear explosion," Mr. Black said. "But they will provide adequate protection in an area covering thousands of square miles that would be contaminated by radioactive fallout from such a blast."

"Within a radius of three to six miles from the point of blast there will be almost complete destruction and there is little hope for survival. It should be pointed out that the most serious threat to British Columbia is expected to be from random explosions or fallout from attacks on more important targets rather than direct attack on a populated area in this province."

LARGER AREA "Beyond the blast danger zone, however, there would be a much larger area in which life would be threatened by radioactive fallout. It is in this area that the fallout shelter would provide adequate protection."

A city building official estimated last night the concrete-block shelter described in the federal booklet would cost $150 to $200 on a do-it-yourself basis, perhaps $500 if built by contract.

It was Duncan's first brush fire since the dry spell started two weeks ago.

DUNCAN—City volunteer firemen doused a rampaging grass and brush fire on the north bank of the Cowichan River within half a block of one of the city's most populated areas yesterday.

It raged through grass burned a golden yellow like wheat, and covered half an acre before firemen arrived, shortly before noon.

The blackened area was surrounded by more than 50 acres of bone-dry growth that was brittle and snapped as they raced trucks through areas no higher than paths to get to the fire.

114 Voters Out of 2,856 Cast Ballots at Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN—Voting among taxpayers here hit a record Thursday—the lowest within memory.

Of an eligible 2,856 persons on the voters' list, only 114 took the trouble to go to one of five polling stations yesterday.

Of the votes cast, civil servant Harold Whitfield, a Cowichan Exhibition director, polled 50 per cent and will now represent the municipality on the board of Cowichan School District 65. He led in all but one district.

Returning officer Adolphe Vandecasteyne said the four per cent vote was the lowest in the 17 years he has been in the municipal office.

Mr. Whitfield, who moved here from Victoria several years ago, had 72 votes. John Donaldson received 33 and Stanley John Popplestone had 8 votes. One was spoiled.

Mr. Vandecasteyne said that although it was a low vote there was nothing in the municipal act covering a minimum vote allowed.

DUNCAN—A lack of donations to an exhibition fund drive has forced the planning committee to cut from four to three its projected barn building program.

Archie Stevenson, planning board chairman, said the fund is continuing its requests for donations by mail to persons on a special list.

So far about $2,300 has been raised.

UCLUELET—One hundred school children have already enrolled in Ucluelet's free swimming school. Classes are held at Little Beach every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For safety purposes, Canadian Fishing Company provides a large seine skiff.

Saturday classes are held at Kennedy Lake.

DUNCAN—Robert Brian Mason, 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert George Mason of North Vancouver, will be buried after private services in the Hirst funeral chapel today at 11 a.m. Cremation will follow.

Surviving, besides his parents, are a sister, Cindy, at home; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Mason, here, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tatlow, Squamish.

LADYSMITH—More than 1,000 boating enthusiasts are due to arrive here tonight at the end of an international predicted "log" race.

An estimated 150 boats are taking part from the lower mainland and yacht clubs as far south as Oregon. They are to stay here overnight at Manana Lodge floats and then leave tomorrow.

DUNCAN—Funeral services will be held Monday under the auspices of the Moose Lodge for Maurice Baldwin Dayman, 55, a businessman who helped organize two credit unions here.

Born in Walters Falls, Ont., he died Thursday at Vancouver after a lengthy illness.

Surviving are his wife, Edith, and a brother, Howard, Jordan River.

COBBLE HILL—Two ratepayers' associations here jointly sent a letter to the board of transport commissioners claiming the Canadian Pacific Railway has "lost" its subsidiary E & N Railway.

They also claim in a letter sent yesterday that the two companies and allied trucking firms formed a "cartel" in which small areas suffer.

The barbed letter is opposing the Island railway's action in closing the Shawnigan Lake station July 8. The groups are the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association and the Shawnigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute.

The letter is an answer to correspondence from the transport board and copies of CPR letters to it.

The letter points out that the Island railway's reasons for closing the service would indicate it has lost the railway and was presenting figures for some other service, that the CPR merchandising service was a cartel that "has been and still is inadequate" and that the company should be required to provide a service to all the island, said George Bonner, ratepayers' president.

CHHEMAMUS—Mount Brenton Dog Obedience Training Club dog trials will be held at Chemainus July 16. Registration begins at 6:30 p.m. The program includes C.D., C.D.X. and Utility groups, and the judges will be G. Christie of Victoria and Dr. C. McKenzie of Duncan, both Canadian Kennel Club judges.

LADYSMITH—A young man charged with obstructing a police officer got a break from the court here yesterday.

Lance Parsey, formerly of Duncan, failed to appear for his trial and was given the chance to appear this morning before Magistrate W. H. Bryant.

The magistrate told the police that if he did not appear a bench warrant would be issued for his arrest.

The charges were laid after a fight at a public dance here July 1. Parsey is on $300 bail and has pleaded not guilty.

Giant Water Bomber Ready For Action Against Fires

The giant Martin Mars water-bomber based at Sprat Lake will be called into action again by the forest service to fight the first forest fire that warrants it, an official said yesterday.

The flying-boat last week dumped 20,000 gallons of water on a fire near Powell River before developing engine trouble and returning to Sprat Lake.

Since then, the officials said, there have been no fires on the coast which have warranted calling it out, and it will not be used in the interior because it must be on hand

Sharp Attack

Green Slaps Critics of U.S.

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Howard Green defended the United States government Friday against some of the sharpest criticism heard in the Canadian parliament in years.

Opposition members, led by Liberal leader Lester Pearson and CCF chief Hazen Argue, attacked the Eisenhower administration on everything from reconnaissance flights to the president's golf.

PAST CRITIC

Green, a past critic of U.S. policy himself, backed the American government on all major points. He drew some support from the government benches, but none from the opposition side of the Commons.

At one point, he said simply that it "doesn't make sense for members of the Canadian House of Commons to make fantastic charges against the United States."

"PROPAGANDA"

The most outspoken criticism came from Argue. His slashing attack brought an accusation from minister without portfolio W. J. Browne that the CCF member was merely "repeating so much Communist propaganda."

Argue charged that the U.S. had lost prestige around the world through a series of "colossal mistakes."

"I do not like to see our foreign policy resting quietly in President Eisenhower's golf bag," he said.

"I hope that when the next administration takes office in the United States, it will be an administration more capable of securing peace, more determined to improve the economic lot of the world, and more interested in fundamental principles than in trying to prove the size and strength of its military establishment," he added.

GREAT ERROR

Argue accused Eisenhower of a "great error" in threatening military action against Cuba for its seizures of American-owned companies. World peace and national independence must supersede property rights, he said.

CBC In Black

OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp and unforeseen rise in television revenues left the CBC at March 31 with a $6,103,722 margin of income over expense. Its biggest source of income was a 1959-60 parliamentary operating grant of $58,404,000.

Commercial revenues rose 18 per cent to a gross $38,162,337 and thus made up about 42 per cent of the publicly-owned corporation's total operating expenses of $90,864,218, not including more than $3,000,000 in depreciation.

Stone Ton Buries Worker

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Claude Bourdeau, 22-year-old construction worker, is in hospital following an accident in which he was buried under 2,000 pounds of stone.

"It's a miracle he's alive at all after being buried in all that rock," said a co-worker.

Hospital authorities said Bourdeau has a 50-50 chance of surviving compound fractures at the back of his skull.

A wheelbarrow loaded with a ton of cement blocks was being hoisted to the roof of the building when the mechanism failed. Wheelbarrow, blocks and a platform crashed down on Bourdeau and buried him.

HIGHER TAXES

His formal acceptance speech, delivered before a huge Coliseum crowd that had been treated to a free Hollywood-style extravaganza headed by famous stars, hinted at prospects of higher taxes to meet challenges of communism and poverty if the Democrats triumph over the Republicans in the Nov. 8 election.

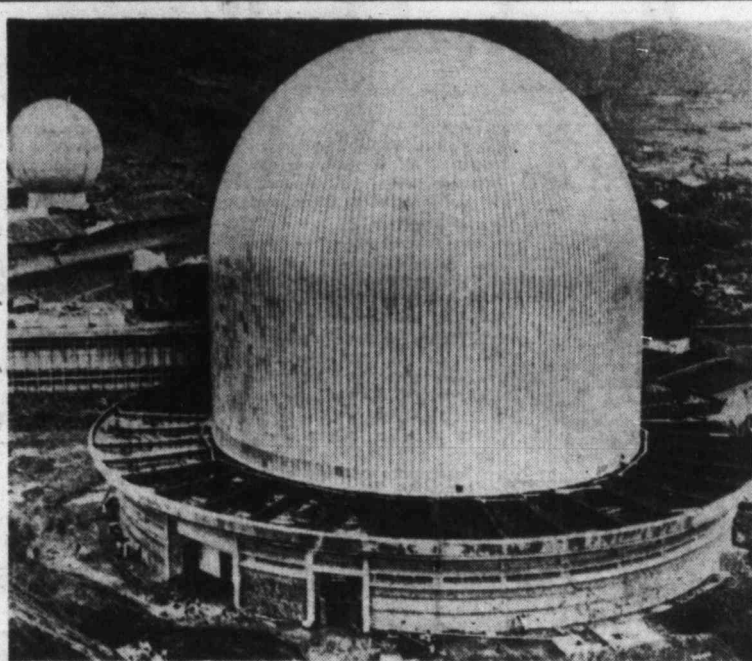

His campaign, he said, would be pitched to meet the challenges of a new frontier instead of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" which promised security and success for those in need.

The session came less than 24 hours after Castro refused to disavow Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threat to fire rockets at the U.S. if this country intervened in Cuba.

Charging that eight years of Eisenhower rule has led to "dry rot" and "payola mentality" and to a loss of U.S. prestige in the eyes of the world, the 43-year-old Kennedy said his campaign will appeal to Americans' pride, "not their pocketbook."

'More Sacrifice' Kennedy Demand

LOS ANGELES (CP) — John Kennedy, the Democratic party's new leader, warned Friday night he will demand courage and sacrifice from the American people if he is elected president next November.

In striking, risky departure from the traditional style of bidding for votes by promising Utopia, the Boston senator boldly suggested that those who want the "safe mediocrity of the past" need not vote for him.

CALGARY (CP)—Chuck wagon driver Don Chapin died before a crowd of 120,000 late Friday night as a result of a spill in competition at the Calgary Stampede.

Weary Gangs Fighting

'Flames Twinkled Wherever I Looked'

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — "There were hundreds of fires marking our path with smoke below us and on all sides. As far as we could see there were patches of smoke and the twinkle of flames."

Photographer John Drysdale, of the Kamloops Sentinel, described Friday a flight over the 200-mile matchbox in this interior British Columbia district where more than 350 fires were burning and where new ones were breaking out at the rate of eight an hour.

More than 1,000 men and vast quantities of machinery Friday were fighting the fires that cast such a pall of smoke over the city that it was difficult to land fire-fighting planes at the unlighted airport and it got dark here hours earlier than usual.

Many of the weary men, conscripted from streets and beer parlors, working 16 hours a day for 75 cents an hour, were being transported from fire to fire by bus.

Forestry officials said most of the fires were started by lightning during the worst thunderstorm within their memories Wednesday. One authority said a fire started by lightning could smolder in a tree for days before breaking out. Some of these could be checked immediately by aircraft.

Drysdale said smoke from the blazes reached heights of 6,000 or 7,000 feet.

"Everywhere we went it was the same story, smoke and more smoke."

The smoke, made flying hazardous for the 13 water-bombing and reconnaissance planes working in the area. One pilot was forced to crash land his aircraft.

Premier Expected To Move Capital

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Mutinous Congolese troops laid down their arms yesterday, the Belgian radio reported. With the United Nations soldiers arriving, Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba ordered Belgian troops to leave.

The radio report said the mutineers in the Leopoldville area gave up shortly after the arrival of the first UN units.

There were indications that the premier would fly to Stanleyville to set up a new capital from which "to unceasingly fight for our independence."

Lumumba also attacked the United States and accused Belgian troops of massacring Congolese citizens. He gave them 12 hours to get out of the country.

DEADLINE

Shortly before the deadline set by the premier, there was no indication that Belgium would comply with the demand.

Lumumba's two-hour attack in parliament followed delivery of a note from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denouncing "western aggression" in the new African republic and offering "any assistance" required by the Lumumba regime.

In Ottawa the Canadian government named three senior army officers, including Maj. H. W. King of Victoria, as its contribution to the special UN team to be sent to the strife-torn Congo.

DECLARE WAR

Lumumba's speech drew cries of "Declare war" from parliament members, as he charged that "Belgian sabotage" would bring chaos.

"There will be no electricity or water in a week's time," he said. "If the situation continues there will not be a franc left in our national coffers and it will take five years to put the country back where it was before."

The Lumumba government officially notified Belgium that it had severed diplomatic relations with the Brussels government, a step that was announced yesterday. A formal note was handed to Belgian Ambassador Jean Van Den Bosch by a Congolese delegation.

The Congo crisis deepened as United Nations troops from Ghana and Tunisia began flying in and the United States started airlifting food from bases in France and Germany to head off famine in riot-torn cities and towns.

The first shipment of 300 tons of flour left from Chateauroux, France, aboard an air force transport. Its destination was Leopoldville where food was running out in Congolese quarters of the capital city.

Lumumba warned that the arriving battalions of UN forces from Ghana and Tunisia, with more still to follow from Guinea and the Mali Federation, must not collaborate with Belgian troops who are supposed to withdraw as the UN forces take over.

"To save the nation we are ready to make a pact with the devil himself," the 34-year-old premier said.

Big Carrier May Call On Victoria

Confirmation is expected in the next few days of reports that the 63,000-ton U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea will visit Victoria this summer. No official statements have been given, but USN officers have surveyed port facilities at Ogden Point and have decided the giant carrier can be berthed here. The carrier's visit to Vancouver last year was a smash hit.

Thousands From B.C. Move to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A near-record exodus of 6,000 British Columbians to the United States in 12 months was reported Friday by the U.S. government visa department.

Hayden Raynor, U.S. consul general, said this is an increase of 20 to 35 per cent over figures for the previous year. "The increase probably could be attributed to B.C.'s unemployment problem," he said.
